Compulsory Rent Registration Set in County

SIGNING UP OF LANDLORDS TO START FRIDAY

Registration Will Include All Rental Housing from Hotels to Single Rooms.

Compulsory rent registration will start in Marion county Friday, Charles K. Bartram, area director, announced today.

Marion county was brought under rent control Sept. 1 and the registration will be the basis for any adjustments of rents in the city and county.

Landlords will have until Oct. 15 to file their registration statements and mail them to the area rent office at 304 West Center street.

The registration includes hotels, rooming houses, boarding houses, apartments, singles, doubles and flats—all kinds of housing accommodations in Marion city and county.

The registration statements, the blanks which every landlord is required to fill out and mail to the rent office, will be available in the following places:

The common pleas courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse; the Marion Public library in South Main street; the municipal court office in the city building at the corner of West Center and Orchard streets.

Required by Law

Made mandatory by law, penalty for failure to register is a year's imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

"This registration is a simple process," Mr. Bartram said this morning. "The blank registration statement have been made conveniently available. It should not take long to fill out a form. When it is filled out, all a landlord has to do is to shake the carbons out, put all copies in an envelope and mail in to the office."

He urged that landlords not wait until the deadline to mail in their registrations. "We want to complete the registration as quickly as possible."

He also urged that landlords study the forms carefully and take pains to fill them out legibly, completely and accurately. Improperly made statements will have to be presented and done over again.

Basis for Adjustments

"Since rent control became effective in Marion county Sept. 1 the rent control office has received many complaints and inquiries and requests for adjustments," the director said. "After the registration starts and until it is completed there will be no adjustment of rent on any dwelling unit unless the landlord has completed his registration and then only if the request has been written out and mailed into the rent office."

The form statements for hotels, rooming houses and boarding houses and other places of transient abode are different from those issued for the registration of houses and apartments.

In each case each rental unit, the site or room, is registered. However, the blanks for hotels and such provide for registration of as many as 36 rooms or suites on one form. If a building contains more than 36 such units two or more forms must be used. Units in two or more buildings should not be registered on a single form. There must be at least one form filled for each building.

Methods of Procedure

The registration statements for houses and apartments are made out in triplicate, for hotels and rooming houses, in duplicate. All copies of both types must be mailed to the area rent office. For a hotel, the proprietor's copy will be mailed back to him after it has been checked by the rent office. For a house or apartment, the landlord will receive his copy, and the tenant's copy will be mailed to the tenant after checking. Copies of all registrations will be filed for record in the rent office. A card is then sent to the landlord when the tenant receives his copy of the landlord's registration.

City Schools Ready To Handle Big Part in Drive for Scrap

All Phases of Countywide Campaign To Be Reviewed Tonight; Work To Begin Monday.

Marion county scrap drive leaders, getting set for an intensive three-week countywide campaign to start Monday, were cheered today by assurances of wholehearted cooperation from the city schools.

Preliminary phases of the city schools' activities were outlined at a meeting of senior and junior high school principals with Supt. E. E. Holt at the school administration building yesterday afternoon. Clyde C. Caldwell, co-chairman of the Marion County Salvage committee, spoke to the group and answered some questions raised about the scrap drive.

Students To Help

This development brought both the city and county schools into 100 per cent participation in the countywide drive, and assured the county committee of the services of approximately 9,000 school boys and girls in locating scrap metal and starting it on its way to the nation's foundries which need it in the manufacture of war weapons.

All the preliminary developments to date, both in the city and county, will be tied more closely into the unified county campaign at a meeting of the county salvage committee tonight in the office of Mr. Caldwell. Representatives of all groups participating in the drive, including the city, county and St. Mary parochial schools, have been invited and general plans for the three-week drive will be coordinated and outlined in further detail.

Schools To Get Funds

Throughout preparations for the drive, arrangements are being made to see that the city, county and parochial schools get not only the credit for the job they will do but also to turn over to them the money that results from the sale of the scrap they gather. The schools will get credit for the metal gathered in stock piles in front of their buildings and also any other scrap that individuals donate to the schools but which salvage trucks must pick up. This arrangement was made to take care of handling big quantities of scrap that someone might give to a school but which would be difficult to move to a school scrap pile. In such cases a salvage truck will pick up the scrap on the premises, haul it to the junkyard and credit the school with the proceeds.

Importance Of Job Stressed

Hundreds of dollars are expected to be turned over to the schools through the campaign, although the money motive is a minor one so far as salvage and school officials are concerned. All of them are centering their emphasis on the factories' needs for scrap metal to assure an unbroken flow of war materials throughout the winter.

The city schools' tentative plans call for the elementary grades, with assistance from the junior high schools, to cover the residential areas. The high school pupils are expected to center their efforts on the business district.

PATROLS RAID AXIS SUPPLIES

Enemy Bases in Africa Targets of Three Daring British Attacks.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Sept. 23—Daring British desert patrol raids 500 miles behind the axis' Egyptian line on three vital enemy points—the big supply port of Bengasi, the nearby coastal airbase site of Barce and the outpost garrison at the Gialo oasis deep in the desert—were disclosed by the British command today.

Announcement of the most spectacular large-scale land raiding in the whole war on the Mediterranean front, in which the British said heavy blows were dealt the enemy, came only after the Italians yesterday had acknowledged a six-day battle at the Gialo oasis.

The disclosure of these rapid-fire land patrol operations showed that even the land-sea-air raid on Tobruk the night of Sept. 13 was only one phase of a series of sweeping incursions into enemy territory far west of the El Alamein line.

Raids Follow Air Attacks

With United States and British air forces heavily bombing both Bengasi and Tobruk in diversion attacks, the desert raiders struck Bengasi on the same night, Sept. 13, that other forces were landed at Tobruk.

Although they began 10 days ago, the Bengasi-Barce raids were a tightly held secret until now, after the patrols have returned to their bases.

Gialo, a remote oasis about 235 miles due south of Bengasi and 500 miles southwest of the El Alamein-Qattara battle line in Egypt, was attacked on the night of Sept. 15.

Bengasi and Barce were attacked two nights before — the same night as the big commando raid on Tobruk, some 220 miles to the east of Bengasi.

The communique said the raiders—British desert patrols—have arrived back at their bases. It listed these accomplishments:

At Gialo—"Considerable casualties" inflicted on the enemy garrison and dumps of ammunition and supplies destroyed by artillery fire.

Many Planes Destroyed

At Bengasi and Barce — More than 30 aircraft damaged or destroyed on the ground and several others "shot down while attacking our troops;" heavy casualties inflicted on "enemy personnel and motor transport."

Britain's heavy bombers returned for a new air blow on Bengasi yesterday, the communique said, setting two ships afire with direct hits. Medium and light bombers, in a night attack on the El Daba region Sept. 21, it said, caused a large fire and explosion on an axis airfield.

Except for artillery exchanges in the southern sector, however, there was little action reported or afoot in the main battle area of Egypt yesterday, the communique said. In the customary night patrolling during the preceding hours of darkness, it reported, British units hurried enemy patrols and working parties and brought in a few prisoners.

SHOVEL CO. HELPS PRODUCTION RECORD

Output of Guns Boosted at Cut in Cost.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. is helping set production and lowered cost records in the manufacture of an important war weapon.

This was disclosed today when the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. announced at Akron it has effected a 25 per cent cut in the cost of producing Bofors 40 millimeter anti-aircraft guns and is boosting its production to new heights.

The Marion company, manufacturing the chassis of the guns assembled at Akron, has contributed to both developments, having worked out methods of reducing the cost of the guns and having boosted its chassis production to keep pace with the increased demand for them at Firestone.

The Shovel company is devoting approximately 10 per cent of its production to the chassis for Bofors. It is not the only sup-

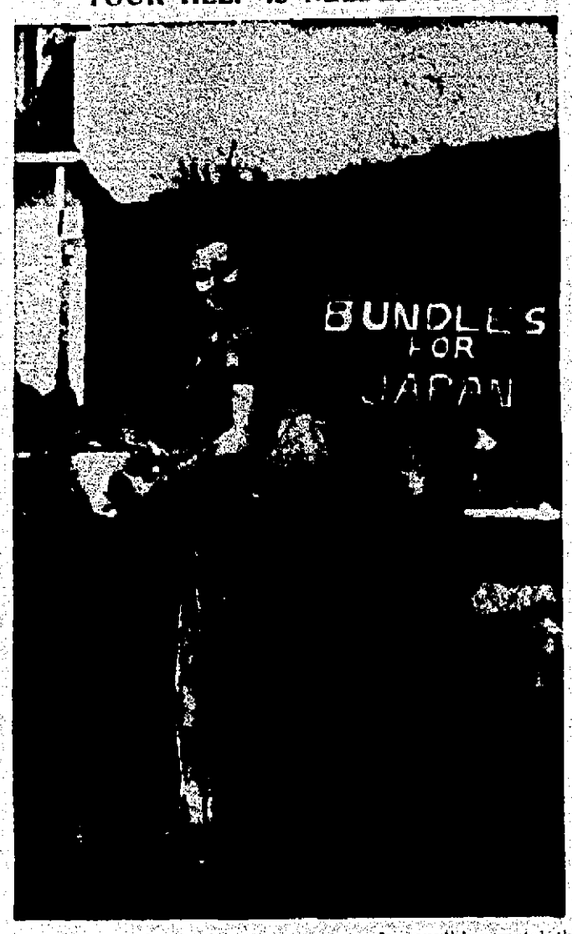
YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TOO



This pretty miss is donating her bit to the "Bundles for Japan" drive put on by Falls City, Ore., to collect all available scrap metal in the community for conversion into steel and weapons. And every bit counts, for anything metal that you have lying around will go into bombs, shells, bullets and other articles suitable for gifts for the Japs. Be sure to have yours ready for the big county-wide collection scheduled to start Sept. 28.

Republicans Pledge Full Backing of Victory Drive

House Group Drafts Pledge of Complete Support in War and Peace To Follow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The Republican delegation in the house, holding that "no party, class or section has a corner on patriotism or ability," stood pledged today to fight for a decisive victory in the war, and to recognize the country's obligation to help maintain peace through a world understanding and cooperative spirit.

A 10-point program of policies and principles—in effect, a platform to carry the party's bid for increased representation in congress after the fall elections—was adopted at an extraordinary conference of house Republicans last night.

It linked with its stand on war policy, one which opposed any attempts to negotiate peace, a demand for "full and immediate utilization by the President of the most capable and efficient military and civilian leadership."

Cites Loyal Support

The representatives declared that the "Republican party has given and will continue to give to the President loyal, wholehearted and patriotic support in the war."

That assurance was followed immediately by the assertion:

"The President should not permit himself to be deterred from the responsibility which is his by those forces and influences which persist in continuing so-called social and governmental reforms at the expense of the war effort."

Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the vote for adoption was "almost unanimous." The resolutions were drafted by a five member committee, composed of Representatives Hope of Arkansas, Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, Robsion of Kentucky, Dirksen of Illinois, and Carter of California.

Martin, who is also chairman of the Republican national committee, declined to discuss the purpose of the resolutions beyond saying they constituted a "guide" for house Republicans. Political observers, however, were quick to interpret the action as an apparent move to dissociate the party from the label of "isolationism" which many Democrats have sought to tag it.

Foreign Policy Section

Dealing most directly with foreign policy were the second and third sections, which read:

"We oppose any attempts to negotiate peace, or the consideration of any peace terms until our arms have won such a decisive victory that we, together with our allies, are able to dictate the peace terms. Freedom is at stake. It permits no compromise or appeasement. The axis dictators must be vanquished.

HIGHER PARITY RATE FORECAST BY FARM BLOC

Senate Group Shows Surprising Strength in Fight for Ceiling Revision.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — Openly confident of victory, congressional farm bloc forces today pressed their drive to write higher farm parity ceilings into the anti-inflation bill, a move toward which President Roosevelt has expressed "unalterable opposition."

Administration leaders in the senate, apparently taken aback by yesterday's surge of support for the parity change, made a hasty overnight canvass for votes.

Farm state lawmakers want the increased cost of hired farm labor taken into account in computing parity prices. This is not done under present law. The pending bill provides that farm price ceilings may not be set lower than full parity, or the highest price between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15 this year, whichever is higher.

(Parity level is a level calculated to give farmers the same ratio between the prices of the things they sell and those they buy which prevailed in a favorable past period, in most cases 1909-14.)

Predicts Passage

"We're going to pass this amendment 2 to 1," predicted Chairman Smith, Democrat of South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee. He added he thought the vote would come today.

A similar amendment was being prepared on the house side by Chairman Fulmer, Democrat of South Carolina, of the agriculture committee.

"The prospect of the passage of this very fair amendment looks extremely good," Fulmer said.

Glum but not despairing, the President's leaders in the senate were ready to present their side of the argument today. They were ready to cite Mr. Roosevelt's letter of last Thursday to the chairmen of the senate and house banking committee, in which he wrote:

"I should like to make clear my unalterable opposition to any

MARION TO SHARE FREIGHT DIVERSION

Eastman Announces Plan To Speed Coal Flow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, announced today the opening Friday of new railroad routes to handle part of the coal traffic from West Virginia and eastern Kentucky to New England destinations.

Eastman said this was intended to ease the pressure of coal movements on eastern railroad gateways. The new routes will shunt part of the heavy coal movement from such gateways as Hagerstown, Md., and Potomac Yards in nearby Virginia to Columbus and Marion, O. From Columbus and Marion the diverted traffic will move east on northern lines.

Freight rates via the new routes will be the same generally as those in effect over the lowest-rated existing routes.

Allies Keep Up Constant Plane Attack on Japs

By The Associated Press

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Sept. 23—General Douglas MacArthur sent fighter planes swarming down the Buna-Kokoda trail in New Guinea yesterday, pouring more than 34,000 rounds of ammunition into the Japanese and their war installations in a growing aerial offensive in the southwest Pacific.

MacArthur's fighters and bombers, in a series of attacks over New Guinea, New Britain and the northern tip of the Solomons, carried out the most extensive sweeps since the start of warfare on New Guinea, today's communique indicated.

Roaring up and down the track between Buna and Kokoda over which the Japanese supply their forces in the Owen Stanley mountains, the fighters set fire to fuel and ammunition dumps, a warehouse and huts used by the

ALLIED CONVOY REACHES PORT

London Disputes Nazi Reports of Heavy Loss Inflicted on Ships.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 23—The great majority of a big convoy of United States, British and Russian merchant ships heavily laden with war supplies for Russia has reached its destination in north Russian ports despite Nazi air and sea attacks, the admiralty announced today.

It acknowledged some losses, but a communique remarked acidly that German claims—to have sunk 38 out of 45 merchantmen—were "more exaggerated than usual."

None of the convoying warships was lost, the admiralty bulletin said, contradicting the German assertion that six escort vessels were damaged or sunk in the running attack by planes and U-boats in the lengthening autumn darkness of the Arctic.

No figures were issued, the communique remarking that "it is not intended to assist the enemy by informing him of the extent of his lack of success."

The communique said:

"Another important convoy carrying large quantities of war

Man, 78, Sentenced for Attack on 70-Year-Old Wife

August Ottmiller, 78, of 1116 Bennett street was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three months in the Columbus workhouse when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery in municipal court this morning.

The charge was filed by his wife, Etta Ottmiller, following a family argument. Police were called to the Ottmiller residence on Bennett street about 3:15 p. m. yesterday. When police arrived they said Mrs. Ottmiller was suffering from cuts and bruises as a result of a severe fight. She is 70 years old.

Appearing before Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, Ottmiller contended that he and his wife had only a slight fight. When Judge Hazen pronounced sentence, Ottmiller said, "Oh, you can't do that, Judge."

Judge Hazen replied, "It's been done, and arose from the bench.

As he left the courtroom, Ottmiller muttered to a couple of bystanders, "that's a tough fine for just that."

Mrs. Ottmiller's attending physician said today that she suffered face lacerations and bruises. She was treated at City hospital.

General Excavator Co. on "Minute Man" Roll

The General Excavator Co., today becomes Marion concern No. 22 to receive recognition from the treasury department for having more than 90 per cent of its employes pledged to buy war bonds on the payroll savings plan.

The company has been awarded the treasury department "minute man" flag and the certificate of award, the Marion county war bond committee announced.

BUT GERMANS PAY BIG PRICE FOR ADVANCES

Moscow Reports Nazis Beaten Back in Several Sections of City.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Sept. 23—Under terrific, coordinated attack of massed tanks and waves of dive bombers, the Russians yielded several more streets in one section of Stalingrad today, but beat off the Germans in hand-to-hand battles elsewhere in the city where the invaders were said to have paid a toll of almost 6,000 men in three days for gains measured in yards.

Battlefront dispatches said Red army forces crossed the surging Volga under cover of darkness and fell upon one flank of the German penetration of the devastated city, driving them from their positions. An important road was reported recaptured in house-to-house fighting in another sector. Southwest of the city the Russians were said to have retaken a village.

Pravda said the sky over the city was a cloud-flecked battlefield with the Nazis making more than 1,000 bombing flights in a single day against reinforced Soviet fighter plane defenses.

Tanks brought up to bolster Hitler's desperate bid for a September victory were reported attacking in massed hundreds.

In a single sector attacking infantrymen were reported led by more than 100 tanks—perhaps the greatest armored shock force ever used in street fighting.

Report Nazi Losses

Recounting the price the Nazis paid for their limited gains, the Russian mid-day communique said more than 1,000 Germans were killed in fierce fighting northwest of the city; 400 more in the northern part of Stalingrad and two companies of perhaps 300 men wiped out elsewhere in the city area by Russian tanks.

The midnight communique said more than 3,000 Germans had been killed or wounded in the preceding two days northwest of the city alone, with 300 slain in another single salient and a battalion of about 600 men wiped out south of the city.

The army newspaper Red Star said street booths and even overturned automobiles were used as firing points. Hard fighting for intersections developed, with the Germans in some cases firing from buildings on one corner while Red army men blasted away from the opposite side of the street.

The 30th day of the siege brought fresh squadrons of dive-bombers into action, but field accounts said reinforced Russian fighters proved equal to the challenge.

Dispatches left no doubt that the street fighting exceeded anything previously of this kind in the war.

Soviet attacks northwest of the city assumed considerable strength and Red Star said the invaders had been hurled from a number of positions in that strategic area.

Village Recaptured

The army publication reported the Russians had recaptured a village southwest of Stalingrad. In a battle for an important height, it said, the Germans lost 22 tanks and several thousand troops in two days.

"In the northern part of the city our troops destroyed six German tanks and 14 trucks and killed over 400 Germans," it was announced.

Over 1,000 Germans were killed in the repulse of a series of Nazi counterattacks northwest of the city and "in another sector our troops pressed back the enemy and recaptured an important road," the communique said.

Save for the street penetrations in a sector unannounced, all German thrusts against the Volga river industrial center were turned back, the Russians said.

Russia's army of the central Caucasus fought on against German tanks and automatic riflemen in the Mozdok area. The communique said eight German tanks were destroyed and more than 100 automatic riflemen killed in one rain attack.

Soviet artillery on the Leningrad front was credited with the destruction of 18 Nazi blockhouses, ten dugouts and two field guns during the past three days.

Nazis Lose 2,000

Soviet counterattacks northwest of Stalingrad were declared to have cost the Germans about 2,000 casualties, 20 tanks, 15 trucks and various guns and supplies within 48 hours.

Scrap Is "Precious Metal" in Making of Steel

To help make absolutely clear to residents of Marion county why scrap metal is so vital to the production of steel that goes into the nation's war program, The Star is publishing the following article on the part scrap metal plays in the industrial war effort.

• • •

WHY is scrap steel so vital to the nation's war-expanded steel production?

Why does the United States, a nation with some of the most abundant sources of iron ore in the world, worry because it is running short of "old junk?"

Why isn't it possible to maintain and even expand production of steel by expanding the mining of iron ore?

These are questions which undoubtedly have popped into the minds of vast numbers of people from coast to coast during the last few weeks.

Can't Be Without It

They are questions that can be answered adequately and conclusively only by steel men, whose business it is to keep basic material flowing steadily into our implements of war.

The answer, they assure you, is very simple. You just can't make steel under modern methods without scrap—and plenty of it.

In Marion, particularly, the problem is acute, because this city has many industries 100 per cent on war production, and many of the plants operate foundries that must have scrap metal.

But the old rails, steel punchings, shavings from machines and shops and other assorted chunks of steel which are the by-product of industry are just as important to the open hearth steel making

Woman Plastics Wizard Cooks Trouble for Axis

VIOLA PALMGREN . . . Her kettles make the Axis boil.

By FRED BRADY
Wide World Features Writer

WALTHAM, Mass. — Everytime Viola Palmgren puts the kettle on, the Axis boils.

Enemy agents would love to know what's cooking in the weird and dirty kitchen where she now makes millions of pounds of plastics which are poured into the American war effort as numberless small parts and devices needed by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in war contracts are waiting to be filled by the gentle hands of a lady who in ten years has become one of the most amazing figures in an amazing industry—plastics, commercial moulding compounds which substitute for metals in a thousand and one ways.

"Plastics can be made into anything," Viola says. "We're in for a plastic age."

War is driving the age forward with demands for the resins, caseins and many other mixtures which have flowed out of a free-quick development which has built 600 plastic plants in the nation, nearly double the number that were churning their brews only five years ago.

An acknowledged leader in the new age is Viola Palmgren, magnate of the Makalot Corporation, which she owns with her husband, Madison M. Makeever.

Embarrassing

Makeever says, "The biggest men in the industry tell me Viola is wonderful. But they always say, 'We feel like damn fools being shown up by a girl.'"

At work Viola looks like a little girl who has been playing with deep-dish mudpies. She wears a blue blouse, a plaid woolen skirt, and a white cap that says "paint" in red letters and tilts over one eye.

She is as smudged and as spotted and as grimy as a chimney-sweep.

But she can't help that because she insists on overseeing everything that goes on in the two-story plant which looks like the dungeon of a medieval alchemist, with 600-gallon kettles roaring as they simmer and bare-waisted men working at heavy presses and mills across which someone has chalked the challenge, "V for Victory."

"I used to work on the kettles," Viola says, looking up at the great-bellied pots which are cooking basic chemicals — chiefly phenol and formaldahyde—with the varying reacting agents which form plastics and with which Viola says she has developed about 75 materials.

Squinting up from her small height, Viola admits that there is danger in the blending of highly volatile compounds—

"It's made me more or less nervous, but I watch it all the time. I wouldn't take a chance."

Two products developed from her plastics have won her awards from the Modern Plastic Academy—an agitator for a washing machine and a display plate for silverware. Viola created those in peacetime when she could turn her science and her plant to anything she wanted from colored buttons to graceful clock cases.

But Viola at war has no time now for anything but materials needed in the giant war plants of the country. She provides the plastics, which later are moulded by the plants themselves.

Busier Than Ever

These days are even busier than her high school years in Malden, Mass., where "I had about five jobs at once."

She doesn't remember all of them but she did drive her father's grocery truck and she did work in the Malden City Clerk's office and she was a newspaper reporter.

The one job she really worried about was her brother's. Viola in fact worried herself into the war effort.

Her brother's job—back around 1920—was working with a German chemist who was fooling with some strange "plastic" stuff in a small room over a Malden garage.

Makeever, financing the German's experiment, was getting impatient with his repeated failures and Viola was afraid her brother was going to lose his job.

So after work at City Hall Viola started dropping around and peering into test tubes and dreaming about formulae. She tried a couple and Makeever decided she was worth more to him than to the vital statistics of Malden.

From that start with "a little porcelain kettle that we still keep and that used to turn out two or three pounds of plastics," Viola went on to the first course in organic industrial plastics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and to the recipes that are helping to axe the Axis.

HEAVY SPRING RAINS HURT HONEY CROP

Production Down Despite Increase in Hives.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—Heavy spring rains slashed Ohio's honey production an estimated 2,191,500 pounds this year despite an increase in the number of hives, the federal-state crop reporting service asserted today.

Honey output will drop from 13,310,000 pounds last year to approximately $10,846,000 this season, although the number of bee colonies increased from 290,000 to 319,000, the report stated.

Frequent rains washed much of the nectar from clover and other honey producing plants and confined bees to hives, but a better than normal late summer nectar flow is expected to continue in the fall and help offset the heavy spring loss.

Production per colony will drop approximately 12 pounds below last year's figure of 46 pounds.

A national crop of 179,653,000 pounds is indicated, a decline of 26,938,000 pounds.

Decreased production will be reflected in retail prices. Comb honey sold for an average of 16.2 cents per pound last year and will bring about 21.5 cents this year. Last year's extracted honey price was 13.1 cents a pound and is expected to be 17.5 cents this year.

'Scrap Happy' Nebraskans Broke Records in Drive

Omaha Editor Tells How State Met Unusual Success in Campaign for Old Metal.

An urgent effort to collect metal actually needed by war industry before winter is slated for many states Sept 28-Oct. 17. In some, it is already under way.

Many are following the pattern of the Nebraska newspapers' plan, which in three weeks ending Aug. 8 yielded the extraordinary record of 104 pounds per capita, a record other states are now out to beat. Nebraskans are trying to beat it, too, by taking part in this drive also.

The Associated Press asked George Grimes, managing editor of the Omaha World-Herald, to tell how to do it. His article follows:

• • •

By GEORGE GRIMES
Managing Editor,
Omaha World-Herald

OMAHA, Sept. 23—Years ago in Nebraska and many farm states, steam engines mounted on iron wheels with great boilers were used to generate the power to operate threshing machines.

Modern farming, with combines and gas engines displaced those old steam veterans, which were hauled to farm gullies and abandoned.

There are five to 10 tons of scrap metal in such old engines. In Nebraska the old engines were given decent burial in junk piles, then hauled to steel mills. Now they are becoming howitzers, guns, tanks.

Nearly every farmer accumulates a huge scrap pile, thinking to replace broken parts on his machinery from that pile. But if he hasn't used a piece of scrap this past year he never will.

That stuff is farm scrap, the best sort of metal for the open hearth furnaces, and it is needed for war production. No respectable farm in the land has less than three or four tons of it; no patriotic farmer is doing his bit for war who doesn't get it into the junk yards now—before the snow flies.

State Still At Work

Nebraska got much of that scrap, is getting the rest during the national newspaper scrap collection effort.

A large electric fan has enough steel for three .38 caliber revolvers; enough zinc for the zinc in one military motorcycle; enough copper for 77 machine guns, enough aluminum for seven gas masks.

That's the kind of salvage Donald Nelson is asking for. There isn't a farm, a home, a shop, a factory, an office, a railroad, that hasn't tons of it around.

It has to go to the junk man for he alone knows how to sort out the 75 different kinds of junk, and from his yard must flow the metal to the mills.

Nebraskans learned all about that, when they collected 68,000 tons of the stuff—104 pounds per capita, in their recent great three-weeks effort.

You won't get the scrap unless you are willing to get a few sore muscles, a few broken finger nails, and perhaps shed a few tears as choice souvenirs go into the heap. Never mind, that's scrap collection.

State Scrap Happy.

This state became scrap happy. The ladies aid abandoned sewing for missionaries in favor of scrap collection. The women's clubs gave up their teas for scrap hunts. The boss in the industrial plant learned something about the bowels of his building by going down into the basement and marking for scrap the abandoned heating system, the old piles of gas pipe, the spare machine parts never used. It's got to be the boss, the janitor or the engineer won't get it all out.

Those old toys, kiddie cars, tricycles, trains, the kids have outgrown, belong in the scrap pile. So do broken scissors, old pots and pans and vacuum sweepers, the atrocious monument to the veteran that is in the city park, the cannon from Cuba, the old set of golf clubs, the broken hose nozzle, busted furnace grates, that ancient jalopy, brass curtain rods, old stoves, radiators, water tanks, auto bumpers, tire chains—all make hard-hitting weapons Hitler wants them left alone; Uncle Sam needs them.

That's the way they talked in Nebraska, and they worked to get the stuff to Uncle Sam—and are still working.

In this state the salvage collection made use of the WPB system, but the citizenry as a whole assumed the task of getting things done.

Nebraska thoroughly organized—and did they make that? There wasn't a men's luncheon or civic club or Chamber of Commerce that wasn't helping get in the scrap. The women's patriotic organizations, clubs, council members, Parent-Teacher associations, were collecting scrap.

Everybody Helped.

Nebraska found out it needed the intelligent help, the hard work, the patriotic spirit of the women to spur the easy-going men into action. The kids helped immensely in ringing door bells, spotting farm scrap, nagging dad and mom to get the scrap in. Patriotic societies, public charities, churches, welfare agencies, became collection centers, and the scrap they sold brought dollars for much needed public services.

In any scrap collection effort the railroads can be an helpful as they were in Nebraska. Railroads make scrap in their shops and they haul it to steel mills. Just get a rivalry going—as the Union Pacific and Burlington rivalry in Nebraska—and tons of the metal will be dug up. Abandoned grave pits are a rich source. Broken down factories and foundries and brick kilns are veritable mines of scrap. So are the gulleys in farms.

Nebraskans, frankly, became specialists in junk. They had to learn about it. Junk no longer, in Nebraska, is a horrible pile of rusting bed springs, water tanks, auto parts, kitchen utensils.

Junk, now in Nebraska, is poison for Nazis and Japs. Of course it has to be made into munitions. But that old iron in the basement or the attic is helping Hitler when it stays there. It's only useful as guns and grenades on the front line.

That's the reason for the national salvage program.

What are we waiting for?

Rotary Speaker Visions After-War Era As One of Vast Opportunities

Research and Science Setting Stage, Marion Audience Is Told.

EDWARD F. FLYNN

Prediction that the years following the war will present unprecedented opportunities for achievement and progress was made to the Marion Rotary club and guests Tuesday by Edward F. Flynn of St. Paul, Minn., assistant to the general counsel and director of public relations of the Great Northern Railway company.

Research and developments taking place in science as the war goes on is helping lay the foundation for the new era, Mr Flynn told his audience following the Rotarians' weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding. His subject was "Shores of Opportunity."

"There is a new frontier for every generation," Mr. Flynn said. "Historians tell us frontiers vanished about 1890, yet we all know our greatest eras of prosperity have occurred since that time. To those young men and women and all others who feel that romance and adventure have passed with the Indian and the free homestead let me say there is today more romance and adventure in chemistry, biochemistry, biology, physics, engineering, the sciences, medicine and governmental administration than ever before existed.

Notable Advancement

"In recent years doctors and scientists, especially chemists, have made more advancement in their professions than any other body of professional men. There is no need of worry today about our supply of power, heat or light because of the fact that sometime all of our coal and petroleum will be exhausted, as scientists tell us that the sun's rays falling on the earth in one minute are sufficient to supply all the heat, light and power requirements of the world for an entire year."

"The United States is today by far the greatest chemical nation in the world and produces more than one-half of all the world's chemicals."

Future of Rubber

Mr. Flynn told of the work being done with synthetic rubber and predicted, "one of these days a new chemical will be discovered no doubt which will enable us to manufacture synthetic rubber that can be placed on the market as cheap as natural rubber but will be many times as lasting."

His talk included accounts of amazing accomplishments with harnessing of the sun's rays, with airplane improvements and the certainty of vastly increased aerial travel after the war, with the tremendous strides made in production of cellulose and cellophane, plastics, bromine and other substances attracting the attention of scientists.

Mr. Flynn interspersed his talk along the more serious lines with plentiful humor and stories. He is a rapid-fire talker of amazing fluency, crowding in a dozen words where the average speaker would be saying one.

Railway Group Present

Among the guests at the meeting were Erie railroad officials and employes, invited in honor of the speaker.

Mr. Flynn's career has been one of numerous outstanding activities. He practiced law at Devil's Lake, North Dakota about 26 years, served that community as mayor and city attorney and also was national commissioner of uniform state laws for North Dakota. He is past president of the Commercial Law League of America, past governor and past director of Rotary International and is serving his tenth consecutive term as president of the Dads association of the University of Minnesota.

Defense Director Speaks

In addition to the address by Mr. Flynn, a brief talk was given by Earl Ruhlman, Marion's civilian director of air raid defense. He asked that 10 members of the Rotary club volunteer for supervisory service in the city's downtown business district during air raid alerts. His plan is, he said, to get 10 such volunteers from each of the three service clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions.

Guests at the meeting were these Rotarians: Walter Flumerfelt of Waterloo, Ia., Major Harold F. Ogden of Sandusky, new commanding officer at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, Charles N. Otto of Marietta, past president of the Marietta Rotary club, Rev. G. Hoag, secretary of the Marietta club and Rev. Charles Hoot of Orrville, O., past district Rotary governor; Capt. Harry Dorsey of the Kingsbury Ordnance Plant, LaPorte, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dorsey of Marion; three Erie railroad officials and employes, Harold C. Thomas, M. C. Murphy, F. J. Mulligan, P. F. Nichols James A. Humble, C. J. Coulter, S. Knorr, F. E. Navin and R. B. Poux, all of Marion, and W. B. Adams of Kent; Gilman P. Allen of Cleveland, Russell S. Moore of Columbus, Mr. Ruhlman and Edwin C. Dee of Marion.

Juvenile Delinquency Discussed at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 23—A discussion of "Juvenile Delinquency in Crawford County" was presented to the Galion Kiwanis club Tuesday at Hotel Talbott by Juvenile Judge Constance R. Keller of Bucyrus, and Glen C. West, Crawford county superintendent of schools. Miss Keller pointed out that Galion surpasses the rest of the county in caring for children, but she emphasized the need of a coordinated program in the county.

Both speakers spoke of the present need of child care in cases where mothers are being called into war industry. Chairman of Tuesday's meeting was Marvin Adams, superintendent of the Crawford county children's home. Guests included John Pickering, and W. L. Black of Mansfield.

It is estimated that Japan suffers four minor earthquake shocks every day.

Average American Favors Laws To Control Prices, Wages and Labor Unions

DR. GEORGE GALLUP
...American Institute
...Public Opinion

P... N. J., Sept. 23—... arguments over ... and around the ... country stores, ... citizen has ... and proclaimed, ... Congressman, this

... a survey from ... the American In... Opinion gave ... country an op... just what they ... were elected to

... the largest num... their list of pro... price-and-wage ... legislation with ...ent Congress is

... proportion would ... to have laws ... control and regu... unions.

... working on be... Institute sought out ... a representative ... of the population ... following issue:

"If you were elected to Congress, what laws would you want to have passed?"

More than one-half of all voters (52 per cent) had some specific law to propose. No check list of any kind was presented to them; their answers were purely spontaneous. Their proposals covered a wide range—all the way from a law for stiffer taxes to a law requiring people to go to church on Sundays.

Following is the list of proposals from the public, ranked in order of frequency of mention. The first four items account for well over half of all mentions.

1. A law to establish ceilings over both prices and wages.

2. Legislation for greater control and regulation of labor unions.

3. A law to draft 18 and 19 year old men into the armed forces.

4. A tax bill to bring in increased revenue for war.

5. An anti-liquor law.

6. Repeal of the farm benefit program.

7. Legislation to bring about government economy in non-war spending.

8. Legislation to consolidate overlapping bureaus of government and increase efficiency.

9. Nation-wide gas rationing.

10. Old age pension legislation.

Among miscellaneous items also mentioned were an anti-lynch law, an anti-poll tax law, legislation against third terms, stricter laws to control war profits, a law to draft labor for war industries, and the establishment of a unified command.

The leading subject on the list—price-wage control—is one on which the majority of voters have had definite opinions for more than a year.

Institute surveys have found majorities of two to one or better in favor of price-wage legislation.

As for the second major item—labor union control—the majority of voters have for many months been in favor of legislation to forbid strikes in war industries.

A survey this spring found 86 per cent voting for such a law.

Rent Questions Answered

Following is one of a series of questions and answers pertaining to landlords and tenants in the Marion county federal rent control area. Released by John K. Harrison, federal rent director, the series covers the scope of rent control, setting of maximum rents by dates, adjustments in maximum rents, services, leases, evictions, special relationships between landlord and tenant, and penalties.

• • •

Occasionally, because of unusual relationships between the landlord and tenant the rent on the maximum-rent date may be substantially out of line with that charged for comparable housing accommodations in the area. In such case, the area rent director may fix a new maximum rent.

Q. The owner of a six-room house rented the house to his son, and, wishing to help him financially, charged only $15 a month. This rent was in effect on the maximum-rent date. Later the son moved out. Must the owner still charge $15 a month when similar dwellings were bringing around $40 a month on the maximum-rent date?

A. No, the landlord is entitled to petition the area rent director to set a new maximum rent substantially in line with what similar houses were bringing on the maximum-rent date.

• • •

Q. In a similar case, the tenant wished to aid his father, who owned the property, and paid $75 a month for a house when similar houses on the maximum-rent date were renting for around $40. Does the maximum rent remain at $75?

A. No, when a new tenant moves in, he may petition the area rent director to set a new maximum rent.

• • •

Under the emergency price control act, civil and criminal penalties are provided for those who violate or attempt to evade maximum-rent regulations.

Q. What are the criminal penalties?

A. The act provides a maximum fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for one year.

• • •

Q. What are the civil penalties?

A. The tenant, or the price administrator on his behalf, may sue the landlord for $50 or treble the amount by which the rent exceeded the maximum rent, whichever is the greater, plus attorney's fees and costs as determined by the courts.

• • •

Q. May any other action be taken?

A. Yes, the rent director may obtain a court injunction to enforce payment of no more than maximum rents.

• • •

Q. Will the rent director be empowered to inspect premises and examine records to detect evasions?

A. Yes, the tenant, the owner or the renting agent must permit inspection of housing accomodations at the request of the rent administrator. In addition, the administrator may require the owner or his agent to submit books and records for inspection.

Galion Teachers Play Leading Roles in City's Civilian Defense Program

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 23—With five of their associates on leave of service with either the army or the navy, Galion High school faculty members are wholeheartedly giving their after school hours for extra-curricular activities in war efforts.

Defense work now occupies many evenings as Red Cross, civilian defense council, air raid training, auxiliary police and adult school classes vie for top place on teachers' spare time schedule. W. R. Widing, history instructor, mixes the past with the present as he trains air raid wardens. He attended the air raid warden school in Columbus on June 12-16, which was sponsored by the American Legion, and since that time has completed teaching a course for 15 warden instructors. A second class of wardens now is at work under his direction. The training school, which is held every Monday night at the high school, is sponsored by the Galion American Legion post, and receives training films from Fort Hayes, Columbus.

Serving as one of the senior wardens who have been appointed in the city is W. L. Swank, teacher in the physics and chemistry department. He also assisted W. R. Widing during the course of lectures on gas instruction.

Joins WAVES

Most recent loss of teaching personnel is that of Ruth Ann Maxwell, Spanish teacher and dramatic coach who leaves Oct. 1 to begin officers' training in the WAVES. Miss Maxwell was sworn in as a prospective officer of the navy auxiliary on Sept. 10, in Chicago.

Mary Anne Casey, assistant secretary to the superintendent, is in Washington to do her share in giving active service among the corps of secretaries and office clerks in the navy department.

Even the added problem of finding new teachers to fill the vacancies has not kept Supt. M. A. Dovenmire from working on the civilian defense council and the Red Cross board. Another faculty member on both of these activities is Lucy Aller, health supervisor of the school. Serving as the secretary of the Red Cross she has recently added another after school duty in her organization of the Emergency feeding committee in Galion. This comes under her work as chairman of the housing and welfare committee on the civilian defense council.

Bailey Cushman, newly employed machine shop teacher, no sooner arrived than he found himself teaching adult and student classes in defense machine shop. Peter Long, welding instructor, spent the summer holding classes for both men and women welders, and although now the welding department has been discontinued by action of the state he continues in the direction of the shop activities.

Summer months did bring holidays for students and teachers alike, but many of both groups spent time in government service. Principal E. B. Pickering served as sergeant of the Pennsylvania railroad police at work guarding government storage.

Makes Rent Survey

When the department of agriculture wanted a rent survey of Galion made the summer Earl Roth, commercial teacher, was on the job. He finished that before school started and now has begun his distributive education classes for adults and students alike. He explained that he will begin his pre-Christmas training for adults employed in downtown stores within a few weeks.

Vivian Berry, secretary to the principal, worked no time this summer when her boss was on vacation, for she went to work a secretary for the defense machine shop and welding department.

Three men teachers are now in camp. They include J. W. Byrnes, band instructor, who is training in the signal corps, as is Walter Sindlinger, formerly visual education instructor, now located at Camp Atterbury, Ind. When the biological department lost the services of James Walters early last winter, another instructor was added to the medical corps—for Walters, who had completed three years of medical school as well as his basic requirements, has served in that field since his induction last January.

Thompson's Chapel Homecoming Planned

An all-day homecoming service will be held Sunday at Thompson's chapel south of Prospect, the pastor, Rev. Woodrow Bell announced today. Former pastors and members, the congregation and friends are invited to attend the exercise which will open with Sunday school at 10 a. m. followed by preaching at 11 a. m. A basket dinner will be served at noon.

An informal program has been arranged for the afternoon, including music and talks by members of the congregation and visitors. Music will include selections by the Brotherhood chorus of Delaware, Raymond Donough and family of Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Coats also of Marion.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK HERE OCT. 4-10

Marion To Join in Nationwide Observance and Contest.

Marion city and community will join in the national observance of Fire Prevention Week Oct. 4-10 with the fire prevention committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, headed by Earl Dune, chairman, sponsoring the movement.

Backed by the chamber membership, the committee is planning fire prevention displays in the windows of the Marion Federal Savings & Loan Co. and the City Loan Co. buildings. Posters, placed in the down town business sections, will call attention to the observance.

The Marion Chamber of Commerce is enrolled in the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Contest, a national, organized fire-prevention movement sponsored jointly by the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Fire Waste Council. More than 600 cities, representing a population of 40,000,000, participate in the program. Through participation in the contest fire losses have been materially reduced in the city and national recognition has been received. This year, more than ever before, it is important that Marion achieve a high standing for the observance of Fire Prevention Week, Mr. Dune points out.

Sewer Referendum

... the sewer rental ... read as follows ... for the main- ... improvement ... the sewage system ... treatment works of ..., Ohio, ... No. 4525 enacted by ... Council of the city of ... on Aug. 10, 1942 ... provides for a schedule of annual rates or charges for a period of five years for the use of the sewage system of the city of Marion, Ohio, upon owners of real estate located within the City of Marion, Ohio."

Voters will be asked to vote "Yes" or "No" to the question "Shall Ordinance No. 4525 become effective as a law of the City of Marion, Ohio?"

Placing the sewer rental ordinance before the voters delays the ordinance going into effect at least until after the election. It originally was to have become effective Sept. 1.

Wording of the school levy is being completed and the ballot will be sent to the printer within a few days. The levy will seek two mills for three years.

Other Ballots

In addition to the referendum and levy ballots, voters will be given party column ballots with the local, district and state candidates a judicial ballot with supreme court and court of appeals candidates and a separate "official question or issues ballot" provided an amendment to the state constitution.

The amendment ballot will read as follows:

"In case the office of any judge shall become vacant before the expiration of the regular term for which he was elected, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the governor, until a successor is elected and has qualified; and such successor shall be elected for the unexpired term at the first general election for the office which a vacancy that occurred more than 40 days after the vacancy shall have occurred; provided, however, that when the unexpired term ends within one year immediately following the date of such general election, an election to fill such unexpired term shall not be held and the appointment shall be for the unexpired term."

Waldo Levy Up

The only levy which will be sought in the county will be a 3.5 mill levy for five years to provide streets lights for Waldo.

The board of elections at a recent meeting let the contract for printing of the ballots to the Unique Printing Co. on its low bid of $350. The Vaughan Printing Co., only other bidder, made its price $355.75.

The board has ordered 22,710 party ballots, 22,710 judicial ballotos, 15,920 tax levy ballots, 15,080 referendum ballots and in all instances, 600 additional ballots for absent voters.

Poll books and tally sheets for both the primary and election were purchased prior to the August primary.

HENNEY & COOPER

A Promise for Tomorrow

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Yesterday: Temporarily, the hurt in Julie Hamilton's heart has been screened by the terror in Dawn Kelland's eyes. Julie loves a young, but grounded aviator named Pete Fowler—and Pete seems to have turned to Dawn. But now Dawn's rich, unpopular father has had a stroke, and Dawn's fear seems incongruous in the light of her and her father's frequent quarrels. And another difficulty with Julie is that she is not only friend of all concerned—she is also a doctor.

• • •

CHAPTER SIX

The Green Car

WITHIN the next few days, Julie's suspicions mounted steadily. Twice she saw the flashy green car standing under the porte-cochere of the old Kelland mansion. Once she saw it leaving the grounds long after midnight. Then the first sunny Sunday morning that the telephone didn't summon her to the hospital, she pulled on a bathing suit, warm woolen slacks and a sweater, and drove the short-cut River Branch road through the low foothills to the beach. As she parked her car, a horn sounded imperiously behind her, and an instant later a green phaeton flashed past, turned right, headed up the main highway north.

Strange young man leaves town, Julie thought wryly as the car streaked out of sight.

A big blue-gray dog bounded into the road, stood barking furiously at the speeding car. A moment later a familiar figure limped out of the shadow of tall trees pressing close to the roadway. He saw Julie at the same moment, smiled, waved. She should have remembered this was Pete's favorite spot.

"Hello," he shouted, flapped a beach towel at her. "Going in?"

Julie wriggled out of her slacks, pulled on a bathing cap. "Yes, are you?" And hoped she didn't look as pleased as she was.

"Who's your friend?" Pete shouted again over the tumult. Colleen was still setting up. "Here, Colleen. Be still."

The big silver-gray terrier stopped obediently, trotted toward her master, still growling toward the bend in the road where the car had disappeared.

"Not my friend. He's Dawn's, isn't he?"

Pete shook his head. "She's never seen him before either. I asked her that yesterday when he went by. He skids out of town every morning about this time. Colleen and I've seen him half a dozen times. Always drives as if he premeditated murder."

Julie held her tongue, let Pete help her down the bank to the strip of gleaming white sand scalloped with clear blue water. But even the plunge into the stinging cold surf didn't wash her mind clear of anxiety. The puzzle seemed only more tangled with every detail. Dawn must have seen him. She must know who the swarthy stranger was. Obviously, however, she had some reason for denying it. But why to Pete? Or was Pete in on the strange secret and shielding Dawn, now?

Familiar Problem

She swam hard for a while, following the shallow, curving troughs of the lazy summer sea. She loved the ocean. The briny taste in her mouth, the icy water, the ruthless buffeting of the great rolling waves.

When she'd stretched every taut muscle, wearied her slim body pleasantly, she ran back up the beach, flung herself onto the warm white sand, panting, her blood racing through her veins.

"Swell, wasn't it?" Pete asked a moment later, dropping onto the sand beside her. "Gives a fellow a new lease on life."

Julie nodded, pillowed her cheek against her arm, tried not to remember long lazy days like this with Pete—a devoted Pete—not this polite stranger.

"What do you hear from the heroes Hamilton?" he asked with a carelessness that didn't deceive Julie for an instant.

"Not much. Neither Tommy nor Joe is a good letter-writer. All we know is that they are both in Australia and that Tommy was decorated for outstanding bravery in the Coral Sea fight."

"Good old Tommy." Pete poured sand carefully from one hand into the other. "Joe's no slouch either."

Julie tried desperately to think of some distraction but she could only lie helplessly watching the old bitterness sweep into Pete's tanned face.

A muscle along his jawline jumped, betrayed the calm of his voice. "God, what wouldn't I give to be with them right this minute.

"Present company not exactly complimented?" Julie tried to tease lightly.

But Pete ignored her. "No telling how many scraps they'll get into before this thing's over. I'd like to be in there—fighting."

"But Pete, you don't have to be on the front line to do all the fighting." Julie took up her old argument again. "The production line is just as important."

He shook his head slowly. "If deep within yourself, you can't feel that the contribution you're making to help set this cock-eyed world straight again is the one you should be making—" He shrugged, sat up. "No matter how much you water it, Julie, it still is bitter medicine."

"But wouldn't it be better to take the dose, stop trying to find

"That's said, Doctor Hamilton."

"Easily done, Mr. Power as long as there are ships to build."

Pete looked at her angrily. "Will you stop being a damned Pollyanna?"

Failure —Again

Julie's own temper took the bit. "What you mean is, will I stop telling the truth?" And the answer is 'no.' You're acting like a spoiled kid, Pete Fowler, pouting because he got one piece of candy instead of two. You have a fine position. You have a splendid opportunity to serve your country. What more could you ask?"

"The right to look Tommy and Joe and all the other boys straight in the eye the day they come home," he said suddenly. "The right to live at peace with my own conscience the rest of my life in the event that they don't come home."

"Oh—Pete! Don't—" but her voice snagged on a sob that crowded suddenly into her throat. All the anger gone now, she put out her hand to him.

But ignoring the gesture if he saw it at all, Pete leapt to his feet, whistled at Colleen who was happily worrying a piece of driftwood down the beach.

"Now that we've had our usual jolly little chat, I'll push along. Come on, Miss."

The dog ambled up to him, thrust a sandy wet nose into his hand affectionately.

"Won't a ride?" Julie suggested, knowing it was useless to hope he'd accept.

"No thanks." He pulled a sweat-shirt over his head. "Need the exercise, so long."

"Bye."

She watched him out of sight, his uneven stride jerks "like a bear-cub in the throat" at the usual jolly chat" he had said. Was it that every time they exchanged half a dozen words, it developed into a sharp quarrel? Certainly she didn't intend to provoke him. Did he snap at everyone like that—Dawn too? Probably not. She stood up, brushed the sand off her suit. It only proved beyond any shadow of doubt that Pete had endowed her with all the virtues of a wife, with whom he could share and quarrel endlessly.

But who wanted to be "sister" to the one man in the world who mattered? she demanded of the sand pulling at her ankles as she waded back up the beach to her car.

Case for Kid Gloves

FOOLS rush in where experts fear to tread. But even fools feel the need for caution in judging the Russians.

They don't blame them for refusing to take Wendell Willkie as a substitute for a second front. They don't blame them for being peeved because at the end of the second summer there still hasn't been any important advantage taken of the fact that Hitler's army is tied in knots on the Russian front. They don't blame the Russians for being disouraged and skeptical about their allies.

The sum and substance of it all is, they don't blame the Russians for anything and don't think the Russians should blame them for anything. If there isn't going to be a second front this year (though the year isn't over yet) that's too bad. If the Russians are disappointed to the point of believing they are being sold out, that's too bad, too. But it certainly isn't any reason to jump at conclusions, particularly conclusions that there has been dirty work at the crossroads.

The Russians, after preparing intensively for many years because they assumed war was coming, weren't ready to open a second front in 1939 when war came; they were forced to open it, after an attempt to appease Germany with a non-aggression pact. Great Britain and the United States didn't assume war was coming. They weren't ready. Their ability to attack Germany was never, in other words, a matter for wishful thinking but for an honest appraisal of realities. If the Russians will think about that carefully, they will realize they have only themselves to blame if they were misled in Washington or London by wishful thinking, the mistake they refused to let London make when the whole shape of the war seemed to hinge on Russia's willingness to come to the aid of Great Britain, France, Poland and associates.

The second front, when it comes, will have to be based on the same thing the common front against Germany is based on now—ability to fight.

NOW that the decision to open the American Legion to veterans of World war II has been made, it probably was a foregone conclusion anyway. All the arguments against it were incidental to the one major fact concerned.

The American Legion has become a national institution. It has accumulated and developed a vast amount of property. Its operations are carried on by means of a huge organization.

The Legion has gained political and social significance. Naturally, while all this has been taking place there has developed within the membership a desire for institutional survival, impossible without new membership.

Most valid objection to mixing veterans of World war II with members of the original Legion was the likelihood that the younger men, being not only more numerous but more active, would dominate the organization in the course of time. Judged by the overwhelming vote to accept them, Legionnaires look forward to that eventuality with relish, or at least philosophically. Unlike the Grand Army of the Republic, the Legion will not perish when its original members are gone.

No Magic in Authority

PLAINLY the wind is blowing—and is being blown—in the direction of universal conscription. Paul V. McNutt, head of the war manpower commission, has talked to the American Legion about the possibility of compulsory service, if voluntary service fails. Sen. Hill of Alabama, who is as close to the administration as Mr. Roosevelt's suspenders, has let it be known that he has a bill all ready. Manpower conscription for industry is in the clay pigeon stage.

Now is the time to take potshots. First of all, there is no magic in authority. Before giving government the power to tell them where to work, citizens properly will want to know whether the government thereby really will help industry increase war production, or whether a few officials merely would get additional authority for the sake of having it.

Second, the government must clarify the terms on which an individual would yield to its conscripting authority. Would he be subject only to some federal agency created to stimulate war production, or would he be obliged to take his chances with the circumstances of employment wherever he might be assigned? Specifically, would he have to join whatever union might happen to control a majority of his fellow workers; would he have to yield to the bad as well as the good circumstances of employment; and how would he be disposed of when his wartime job ceased and he had to revert to his peacetime occupation?

JUST A GAME OF TAG

A hick town is a little place where some folks leave their homes very early on Sunday morning to go visiting. The idea is to get away before some of their relatives drop in for the day and catch them at home.—George Tedrick in Altamont times.

TOO LONG, AT ANY RATE.

So far, the Nazi new order hasn't lasted the 1000 years, predicted by Herr Hitler. On the contrary, it doesn't seem a day over 700.—Detroit News.

Formula Once Disapproved by Mr. Roosevelt Now Appears in Price-Wage Resolution.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — It is Mr. Roosevelt who once condemned insurance policies which state details in large print at the top and then take them away in fine print at the bottom. Yet this formula is noticeable in the new price-wage resolution. It happened this way.

Mr. Roosevelt wanted the farm price ceiling set as of any recent date, or parity — which would raise existing farm prices a little. Congressmen, in writing the legislation, notched the ceiling higher by placing it at parity or the highest price since Jan. 1.

Some criticism arose about this, so the congressional gentlemen turned around and said, all right, we write it Mr. Roosevelt's way and fix Sept. 15 as the ceiling date.

This was announced, displayed in the press, and everyone concluded the ceiling had been slipped back—unless he read the resolution.

True, in the first sentence, the resolution directed Mr. Roosevelt to take the level of Sept 15, "except as otherwise provided in this joint resolution." But, down in the body of the resolution, it "otherwise provides." Just what the congressmen wanted in the first place, fixing the ceiling at the highest price since Jan. 1 or parity prices.

The highest available price ceiling is thus to be taken for each product and, if you apply the legislation to each, you will find it allows increases of 9 per cent to 25 per cent above existing levels.

Wages

So also with wages. The legislation approves the war labor board yardstick, allowing wage increases to the unions to whatever extent the cost of living has been increased since January, 1941.

As farm prices are bound to increase under the farm section, the cost of living is certain to continue to go up. Thus, wage increases are to be granted hereafter, by whatever degree the farm prices are allowed to increase.

What we have here then, is not a price or wage freezing policy, but a formula to hold them loosely in hand—Mr. Roosevelt's hand. That they both will continue to increase is obvious.

This resolution coupled with the tax bill—now appearing simultaneously from the senate finance committee — affords the board skeleton outline of economic war policy (a skeleton which seems to have been lost from public sight in the confusing arguments over details of the legislation in both cases).

The tax bill represents the ultimate extent to which corporations' taxes can go (the congressmen believe), without destroying the private initiative necessary to maintain production. This is the same key to the wage-price policy, which the administration also justifies as necessary to maintain farm and labor incentive for war production.

Inflation

The individual rates of the tax bill are unprecedentedly terrific, but all agree—treasury and congress—that they will not prevent inflation. The fact is the enlargement of war incomes is restricted to the low income group, which has not been paying income taxes.

Practically all the increases in wages are restricted to this group, but congress has found it difficult or impossible to reach them with taxes.

It could be done, to some extent, with a sales tax, because this low income group no doubt is the only one spending more money as a result of the war inflation, but a sales tax would hit all.

Another way would be forced savings, but both methods are politically unpopular. Congress dropped them for a 5 per cent gross income tax which likewise hits all.

It is not considered wise politically to go after the low wage groups separately, in any way, so what we have as a tax bill really is mainly a further tremendous increase on all, mostly on successful people, the best laborers, farmers, the non-unionized middle classes, the white collar workers who have had no increase in wages, but will have to pay higher prices and tremendous taxes. The bulk of additional revenue will come from them and from corporations.

The tax bill is, therefore, no restraint on inflation. It will leave possibly $35,000,000,000 of war revenue to be raised annually from treasury borrowing (bonds) from banks and insurance companies, which hold the savings of the people.

No one likes it very much, because it does not do any job efficiently — raise enough money, prevent inflation or provide a fair and equitable tax distribution, but, as in the case of the wage-price bill, it seems to be about all that is politically feasible.

It is enough for the present that both measures be appreciated by the public for what they are, which is difficult enough in view of the confusing political arguments which have engulfed them.

Parity Interests All

Agricultural Price Formula Becomes Public Issue.

A LOT of Americans who never paid any attention to it before are wondering about parity. It's more than a word to denote a scheme for satisfying farmers. It is one of the big ideas of the times, of interest to industrial workmen and everybody interested in minimizing the shocks of economic ups and downs.

Parity for farm prices does not mean price ceilings. Neither does parity for wages, though the word has not been applied in that field yet. Parity means a fixed relationship to some other factor that may or may not be movable. Farm parity is a ratio between farm and non-farm prices — the same ratio that existed in 1909-14. Wage parity, as established in war labor board decisions, is a relationship to the cost of living at a certain time.

In computing parity prices for farm commodities the department of agriculture uses the prices, in 1909-14 and currently, of 86 commodities used on the farm for family living and of 86 items used in farm production. These items include clothing, household supplies, food, building materials, automobiles, tractors, gasoline and tires, feed, fertilizer, seed and so on. Allowances are made for seasonal factors. Effect of freight rates is automatically covered by using prices paid by farmers in the local market.

IMPORTANCE of parity in connection with the agricultural prices is due to the fact that food forms the largest single item in the budget of most families, usually about one third of the total. Retail food prices are a reflection of farm prices, and the manner in which the parity principle is worked out under wartime conditions will influence farm prices and the government's program for stabilizing prices and wages.

Development of the idea has been traced in Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly as follows:

"The parity idea reflects the resentment of large numbers of farmers against the depressed agricultural conditions which followed World war I. They felt that in an economic sense they had fallen behind the rest of the nation and that something definite should be done about it.

"Various measures looking toward this end were introduced in congress, but during the 'twenties more of them failed to become law. President Hoover's federal farm board, set up in 1929, had to operate during a period of falling prices, and didn't succeed in appeasing the farmer.

"Under President Roosevelt the parity idea came to the fore. It was incorporated in the agricultural adjustment act of 1933, and again in the agricultural adjustment act of 1938, one of whose sections provides that:

"'Parity, as applied to prices for any agricultural commodity, shall be that price for the commodity which will give to the commodity a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of such commodity in the base period; and, in the case of all commodities for which the base period is the period August, 1909, to July, 1914, which will also reflect current interest payments per acre on farm indebtedness secured by real estate, tax payments per acre on farm real estate, and freight rates, as contrasted with such interest payments, tax payments, and freight rates during the base period. The base period in case of all agricultural commodities except tobacco shall be the period August, 1909, to July, 1914.'

"This formula does not fix prices at any particular level, but defines a relationship or exchange ratio between prices paid by farmers and prices received by them. It is not a cost-of-production or standard-of-living formula except as it may happen to work out that way in the cases of individual farm families or groups of families.

"As might be expected, the period 1909-14 was one of the most satisfactory, from the standpoint of the relationship between farm and other prices, in our national history.

"BEFORE the war boosted demand for many farm products, farm leaders—in congress and out — sighed for parity as the Children of Israel sighed for the Promised Land.

"During the war, while not all farm products fared alike first one and then another got up to and above parity—some of them well above.

"Then began talk of changing the formula so that certain prices wouldn't look so far past the goal. As this talk went on, there developed some tendency for farm

"THE LONG ARM OF RETRIBUTION"

Problems That Go With 222 Billions

War Cost Necessitates More Saving, Broader Taxing.

LONG ago the tax paying public lost touch with ins and outs of public spending. The figures had become so enormous that they ceased to have meaning, a circumstance of government that gives pause to thoughtful citizens.

Politicians even have yearned publicly for heavier taxes to wake up the small citizen who has ceased to worry about multi-million dollar deficits because he doesn't know what a billion dollars is anyway. Publicists have tried everything they can think of to make him understand, telling him that if George Washington had kept on throwing dollars across a river at a rate of one a minute he still couldn't have thrown away as much money as the deficit.

The Tax Foundation Inc. in a booklet entitled "Facts & Figures On War Finance" has made a somewhat different approach to the problem of billionitis. Using the question and answer device, with numerous illustrations, it attempts to explain the consequences of public spending as far as war is concerned. A digest of the pamphlet's contents tells the financial story of the war as follows:

The program of war funds already spent, authorized for spending and currently being spent is 222 billion which is more than all the spending of the United States government from the time it was founded in 1789 up to the beginning of this war. Up to now 35 billion already has been spent, leaving 187 billion to go. Estimated spending for the 12 months beginning last June 1 is between 67 and 71 billion, which is as much money as was earned in the whole country during 1940. While non-war costs have been reduced somewhat, the federal government will spend more than six billion for those during the same 12 months.

Money to do this must be obtained from the people in two ways. Some of it will be in the form of taxes. The rest will be in the form of loans, payable some time in the future. Obviously, the safer, cheaper way is taxation, but there isn't that much money available, which is the reason for the borrowing.

SOME borrowing is sounder than other kinds. If the government borrows directly from the people through sale of War Bonds, or uses the savings of the people as held by insurance companies and savings banks, the result is similar to investing in the future prospects of the United States. To the extent that the government borrows from commercial banks, on the other hand, thereby making more money available for private spending, it contributes to the possibility of disturbing the money balance and producing inflation, or higher prices.

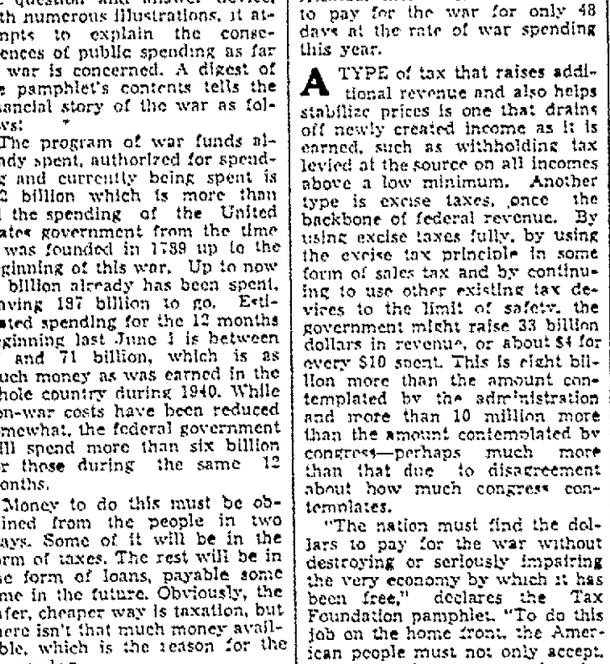
It is already officially estimated that the federal debt will reach a total of about 125 billion by June, 1943. Assuming that an United Nations victory may not come until the end of 1944, the federal debt may reach 250 billion, five times as much as the largest debt carried before war started.

Due to the necessity of keeping existing tax sources healthy, the government cannot continue to draw on them endlessly for the money it needs. It must find ways to broaden its tax collection base; in other words, if all net incomes over $5,000 in 1941 had been confiscated, there would be enough to pay for the war for only 48 days at the rate of war spending this year.

A TYPE of tax that raises additional revenue and also helps stabilize prices is one that drains off newly created income as it is earned, such as withholding tax levied at the source on all incomes above a low minimum. Another type is excise taxes, once the backbone of federal revenue. By using excise taxes fully, by using the excise tax principle in some form of sales tax and by continuing to use other existing tax devices to the limit of safety, the government might raise 33 billion dollars in revenue, or about $4 for every $10 spent. This is eight billion more than the amount contemplated by the administration and more than 10 million more than the amount contemplated by congress—perhaps much more than that due to disagreement about how much congress contemplates.

"The nation must find the dollars to pay for the war without destroying or seriously impairing the very economy by which it has been free," declares the Tax Foundation pamphlet. "To do this job on the home front, the American people must not only accept, but must rather see to it, that the nation adopts several fundamental policies. These are:

1. The saving of every possible dollar not necessary to the war and not absolutely essential to the needs of the people. This means immediate and rigid economy on the part of government, federal, state and local.
2. The imposition of maximum necessary taxes upon all of the people and their industry without working inequitable or unbearable hardship on any part and without destroying or stifling the system of free enterprise which produces the nation's income through which it has achieved the highest standard of living ever known and only through which, after victory, it can advance to new frontiers.
3. Along with a broadly based, realistic system of taxation—one of the most equitable and effective bars to inflation—to adopt all other practical anti-inflationary measures.
4. To conserve all national resources, human, natural, financial and, while winning the victory for democracy, to also preserve and prepare democracy for peace.



"It's a last resort! If THIS doesn't attract the Navy, I give up!"

More on Marines

Famous Fighting Corps Gets Some Unusually Interesting Former Athletes To Instruct.

THEN there was Elmer Tutweiler, 23 [illegible] old, sparse-built and balding, who [illegible] be a right handed pitcher for Mobile [illegible] Milton Stock. He hurled the old equine [illegible] in other southern towns and was once up [illegible] the Pittsburgh Pirates for a look-see [illegible] Traynor.

Elmer, like Joe Benjamin and Cupe [illegible] and Jerry Jacoby, was finishing up hos[illegible] in the United States marines when I saw [illegible] but wore his private's uniform with some[illegible] of an air. He was working for the [illegible] corporation in Birmingham when he en[illegible] That is the only way you can get in the [illegible] rines—by enlisting.

Cupe Perry, the former college and professional footballer I told you about last [illegible] day, also worked for the duPonts in Bir[illegible] nam. Both he and Tutweiler wear the [illegible] of rifle experts. Tutweiler said he had [illegible] a lot of time working in coal mines in the [illegible] between baseball engagements but those [illegible] camp was even tougher on a man than [illegible] mines. While I was talking to Tutweiler [illegible] came Pvt. Cy Shindell, who is out of New [illegible] and who, like Joe Benjamin, used to be a [illegible] fighter, or boxer, to use the more polite [illegible] I remembered that Cy was handled by [illegible] Charley Goldman. Cy, a swarthy, solid[illegible] up chap, had discolorations under his eyes [illegible] said he acquired them in a slight fistic argu[illegible] with a couple of guys.

"How did you you make out?" I inquired [illegible] lictously.

"On the deck—as usual," replied Cy [illegible] ing.

THE "as usual" was probably a slight exaggeration. Cy was a willing sort of [illegible] for in his day, maybe not the greatest fighter in the world, but not the worst, either.

He is 25 and on his second "cruise" with the marines. He was in years ago and went through boot camp at Parris Island. It was a [illegible] month training session in those days and Cy is sure it was tougher than the seven weeks' [illegible] of the present.

Cy is putting on boxing shows for the marines and they tell me he is a good match maker. Marines enjoy boxing. In fact, I am told they like to settle arguments among themselves with the good old mauller, which is the best way I know to settle arguments among individuals. Cy had a young, slim good looking corporal with him by the name of Slappy [illegible] he introduced as his pal. A corporal in the marines is pretty much of a big gun, his authority almost equaling that of a commissioned officer in other branches of the service.

"BIFF" HOFFMAN, great Stanford football player of another day, is in boot camp and surely is in his late thirties. Barney Ross, the former lightweight champion of the world, is another former exponent of muscular endeavor who is with the famous fighting 4th and Barney is no kid. I think that at [illegible] he was one of the finest lightweight champs in the history of that division, a good boxer, a fair puncher and highly courageous.

Since a requirement of the marines is self reliance and thinking on the part of the individual, I suppose these mature former athletes are good types for that service, especially after they are trained back to some semblance of their old physical form. They retain the capacity for relaxing that is born of experience and they are all world-wise and instinctively alert. I think they will make great marines and there is nothing greater than a great marine.

New Jobs for Cheap Tobacco

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Features

NEW YORK—The complete smoker can wash his hands in a brown soap made from tobacco and decorate his pipe with a [illegible] made from tobacco.

He can also build a den in which walls and ceilings—floors too if he wishes—are made of tobacco fiber boards.

These new uses of tobacco are reported by J. S. McHargue, of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in The Frontier, a publication of the Army Research Foundation. They come from research by scientists for profitable uses for grade tobacco.

McHargue thinks the quality of smoking tobacco has been improved by finding new uses and markets for the low grade stuff, which hints sometimes got into your smokes despite the efforts of the tobacco companies to keep only the best.

The soap, he says, possesses excellent lathering qualities. The varnish, brown in color, has a high luster. The tobacco fiber board is usually light-weight. He thinks it will be a useful supplement to present fiber board products.

There is no tobacco fragrance in the products.

U. S. Planes

In a recent analysis of war planes, Major C. Locke and Major N. F. Silsbee of the army air forces told the Society of Automotive Engineers that American-Built fighter planes have not been able to equal high altitude performances of British, German and Japanese craft so far, but that new models now perfected soon would take care of things "upstairs."

The two officers pointed out the superior performances of other types of United States planes that have been tried out in actual combat and explained that there can be no such thing as all-purpose airplane.

Explaining the development of foreign high altitude fighters, the officers recalled that the British Hurricane and Spitfire were first flown in 1934, test flown in 1936, put into limited production in 1937 and that since then there have been many improvements on the basic ships. The German Messerschmidt: Me-109 was brought out in 1936, put into full production in 1937 and since then improved extensively principally on the basis of combat experience in the Spanish civil war. Now, the officers added, several German planes have reached the limit of their types and can no longer be improved to meet United States planes. The country's ability to improve a basic design to incorporate changes is a test of "our American system of flexible quantity production," they said.

The government is building a $30,000,000 flood prevention and hydro-electric project at Rockland, south of Millinocket, Me., on the Penobscot river.

Escaped Ohio Convict Returned from West

By The Associated Press

LONDON, O., Sept. 23—George Nichols, 56, of Chillicothe, O., who fled from the London prison farm July 2, 1940, has been returned from Modesto, Calif., to complete a one to 20 years term imposed in 1938 for a statutory offense involving a 13-year-old girl.

Nichols unsuccessfully fought extradition to Ohio, carrying his plea to the governor of California.

Nichols was admitted to Ohio penitentiary from Ross county April 13, 1938, and transferred to the prison farm Feb. 8, 1939.

Records show the parents of the girl served workhouse sentences as a result of Nichols' crime.

The fugitive stated he worked as a California fruit picker after roaming other western states. He said he once returned to Ohio. His escape cost him two years' prison time and will result in his transfer to the penitentiary.

Officers Are Installed by Marion Co. Legion Posts

Speakers See Prospects of Armed Service or War Work for Legionnaires Next Year.

That the American Legion throughout the nation expects to be called to armed service again or to some phase of work pertaining to World War II was indicated in two talks on the recent national convention in Kansas City, given at the annual county-wide installation of officers last night in the Legion Dugout.

The talks were made by Dr. H. A. Hoopes of Clarence Phillippi Post No. 101 of LaRue and Fred P. Haas, retiring commander of Caledonia Post No. 401, both of whom attended the convention sessions.

"In the last 24 years there never was a time when they are so likely to call upon men for real action," Dr. Hoopes told the Legionnaires from Marion, Prospect and Caledonia.

"They are speaking of millions of men under arms, talking of an army of 10 million. The single men of this country are practically absorbed. They are going to call older men and younger men. A great many sitting here will be, I think, a year from now in service. If the war keeps on, and it looks like it will, the Legionnaires around here today doing common work will be doing something else, some duty pertaining to the war.... We American people have been riding loosely. Next year we will have to ride harder and over more range than ever before."

Cites McNutt Talk

Mr. Haas mentioned Paul V. McNutt's convention address on manpower, in which he said, according to Mr. Haas, that any citizen of the United States, man, woman or child, who refuses to do his utmost to further the war is a detriment to the country.

Dr. Hoopes and Mr. Haas attended Legion and 40 et 8 sessions as delegates of Marion Vulture 48 and Glenn E. Allen of the Caledonia post was a delegate by virtue of his office as grand correspondent of the Grande Voiture d'Ohio, Inc. In the 40 et 8 sessions the Ohio voiture won the Mulrooney trophy for membership, second place in the voiture nationale trophy and second place in the Ingram trophy. R. F. Leemhuis of Elyria, who has visited Marion on several occasions, was elected sous chef de chemin de fer and E. H. Burns of Champaign, Ill., was elected chef de chemin de fer.

Becomes County Head

E. M. Breithaupt of 327 Marion avenue, retiring commander of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, was installed as county commander, and Walter Behner of Bird-McGinnis Post was installed as county adjutant.

Albert Dripps of 348 Cherry street, an employe of the Anthony Laundry Co., was installed as commander of the Marion post.

Elected officers of the three posts represented last night are as follows:

Bird-McGinnis Post, Marion—Mr. Dripps, commander; Jewell Ralston, first vice commander; John Moore, second vice commander; R. A. Todd, adjutant; Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds, historian; Curtis Laubner, sergeant-at-arms; Harry Baldauf, finance officer; Robert Brown, chaplain.

Caledonia Post No. 401—Marion Grace, commander; Roy Groves, first vice commander; Wayne Dilts, second vice commander; Clarence Messmore, adjutant; Louis Sickel, finance officer; Elmer Leathem, chaplain; Henry Wade, sergeant-at-arms; Glenn E. Allen, Mr. Haas and Frank Hammond, executive committee. Mr. Grace succeeds Mr. Haas.

Vern I. Mounts Post No. 368, Prospect — Edward Perry, commander; Victor Oswald, vice commander; Paul B. Gast, adjutant; B. Harry Gast, finance officer. Mr. Perry succeeds Harry Gorenflo.

The LaRue post will elect and install officers within a few weeks.

J. W. Llewellyn, past commander of Bird-McGinnis post and the first county commander, conducted the installation ceremony, in the absence of John Duncan of Columbus, Sixth district commander, who could not be present. Police Chief William E. Marks served as sergeant-at-arms for the installation.

Mr. Breithaupt opened the meeting and then presented the retiring county commander, T. E. Kinnear, who turned the meeting over to Mr. Llewellyn.

Presents Badges

Mr. Llewellyn presented the new officers with the badges of their office and presented a diamond-centered past commander's pin with 40-8 insignia to Mr. Breithaupt.

Mr. Kinnear thanked the Legionnaires for extending him the honor of serving as county commander. Mr. Breithaupt spoke of the work done by his adjutant, Mr. Todd, during his year as commander of the Marion post and of his hopes for a successful year as county commander.

Mr. Todd in a brief talk announced that the Marion post collected its quota, 4,160 pounds, in the phonograph drive and said the drive has been extended to October. He said persons having records should call him, 5251, or Mr. Kinnear, 4252, and the contributions would be collected at the homes. He said records also might be left at the Dugout.

"If we all work together we should have another good year," Mr. Dripps told the group. "Lots of things will happen this year and we are going to be connected with them. If everyone gets in and fights I think we'll go through all right."

"I think most of the World War I veterans will realize this year is the time to be just a little more patriotic and a little more interested in the American Legion," Mr. Ralston said in speaking of his work as membership chairman of the Marion post.

Others Introduced

Others who were introduced, some of whom gave brief talks, are Mr. Moore, Mr. Brown, who is a charter member of the Lancaster, O., post, Mr. Baldauf, Don Davis, T. E. Andrews, Mr. Grace, Mr. Perry, Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. Laubner, Probate Judge Oscar Gast, William Kehrwecker, commander of Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans, N. V. Foreman, commander of Marion Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars, George Mosier, Charles Howard, Chief Marks, and Mr. Llewellyn, who talked on Legion participation in the annual Boy Scout pilgrimage to the Harding tomb on Nov. 1.

Mr. Dripps urged the Legionnaires to visit the Dugout during the week when men of the 2nd Battalion, 333rd Engineers Regiment, stationed near Marion, are guests of the canteen service.

Announcement was made of a stag party Sunday at the fairgrounds, sponsored by Marion Vulture 48, 40 et 8, to raise funds for its work, and of the installation of Ohio department and district officers on Saturday, Oct. 3, at 8 p. m. in the Deshler Wallick hotel at Columbus.

Mr. Davis urged the Legionnaires to attend the Legion Luncheon club informal meetings every Wednesday at 12 noon at the Kumbart hotel. It was reported that Frank Bowen of the Marion post, who is ill in the veterans' hospital at Dayton, is improving.

Preceding the installation ceremony the Marion post was host at a complimentary dinner, which was served by women of the Marion auxiliary. Candles and flowers decorated the tables.

THE first dinner meeting of the season for members of the Altrusa club was held last evening at Hotel Harding with Mrs. Ruth Ard H. Lawson of Marion as a guest speaker. Miss Mary Margaret O'Donnell, president, [illegible] a business session. Mrs. Ruth Wood, program coordinator, was in charge of the program hour and there was a songfest conducted by Mrs. B. L. Wallace with Miss Grace Cooper at the piano.

The club members were joined by a number of guests to hear Mrs. Lawson, wife of a U. S. army major, talk informally on her experiences at Pearl Harbor on and after Dec. 7, 1941. After telling her audience that her talk would be a conversation Mrs. Lawson gave a vivid picture of blackouts, both at home and in transportation, just how it sounds to hear enemy planes zooming overhead, what it is like to walk out of one's home with only a few necessities and one or two precious possessions, nights at sea and other interesting but uncomfortable experiences of war.

Meager Christmas

It would be difficult to name a highlight in Mrs. Lawson's talk—it was all highlights. Particularly interesting was her account of Christmas day spent on the Anarf with a ham sandwich and a soft drink for Christmas dinner. Every child had some kind of a Christmas, however, if only a branch of a tree with some sort of a gay trim. "Instead of the customary Merry Christmas greeting, the evacuees greeted one another with 'I hope this is the worst Christmas you ever have'," Mrs. Lawson said.

Her journey to the mainland was most interesting and she praised the morale of the evacuees and the injured soldiers, summing it up with "I am convinced that American people have what it takes." The American Red Cross and what it meant to the evacuees came in for a generous share of the speaker's praise. "You give your money and sometimes do not see what it does, but I did," Mrs. Lawson said. She told of the importance of blood banks and said that she hoped that if any of these present were asked for donations they would respond generously; "It is very essential," she stated.

Describes Honolulu

Mrs. Lawson gave her audience a brief but vivid picture of Honolulu and Scofied Barracks and said she hoped to return there after the victory is won. She described Hawaii as a peaceful, lovely and beautiful place and said the natives feel they are definitely a part of the states.

Fall flowers in vivid shades decorated the table. Guests included Mrs. Lawson, Miss Fern Patterson, Mrs. Griselda Dombaugh, Miss Audrey Bolander, Mrs. Fred Hoch, Miss Helen May, Mrs. Mary K. Dudley, Miss Grace Durfee, Mrs. Charles Waters and Dr. Dessie Thompson.

Arrangements were in charge of the social committee composed of Miss Arlette Roberts, chairman, Miss Hazel Darst, Miss Helen Kramer and Mrs. Flossie Smith.

Will Give Marriage Trial With "Stranger" Husband

MRS. GLORIA WELLER MILLER

Amnesia Victim Says She Will Try To Make Go of It with Man She Didn't Know.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Sept 23—Pretty Mrs Gloria Weller Miller and the husband she says is a stranger to her after nearly five months of married life will try to find happiness in the bizarre situation into which fate has cast them.

By means of a trial marriage, they announced last night they will attempt to form a permanent relationship out of what was to him a normal domestic life, but to her was merely a hiatus in her existence

A psychiatrist yesterday predicted a complete recovery by Mrs Miller from the amnesia which gripped her upon the death of her first husband, H Pierce Weller, former Binghampton, N Y, editor, and under the spell of which she said she married Henry Miller, a commercial photographer.

Trial Marriage

"I've decided to stay and give him a chance," said Mrs Miller, 25, to interviewers, "we will live together a while to see how it works out It will be sort of trial marriage."

"That's all right with me," Miller concurred "I feel sure everything will work out fine. I'm willing to try it for a while."

Mrs Miller said she was becoming accustomed to the new life to which she awoke Friday, in a city strange to her and wearing clothing she did not recognize.

"She's welcome to a divorce if she wants one," declared Miller, 42, "but she has no immediate thought of it. If she divorced me claiming she didn't remember me there would be a lot of people trying it."

Mrs. Miller was examined by Dr. Paul J. De River, police psychiatrist, who reported she had a mild hysterical amnesia, and that she is on the road to recovery.

Disappeared Friday

Mrs. Miller's plight was disclosed Sunday night when she appeared at Hollywood police station following her disappearance Friday. She told police she found herself driving on a north Hollywood street in a strange automobile. Miller meantime had reported her absence, and they were reunited. But when informed Miller was her husband she screamed and became hysterical.

She told police her last memory was of entering her Atascadero, Calif., home Nov. 1, 1941, and finding her first husband, Weller, dead in a chair.

She remembers clearly her life before that time.

Swiss Have Good Reason To Fear Loss of Neutrality

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Little Switzerland has ample cause for her anxiety over the large and increasing number of refugees who are begging admission at its frontiers, for there has been created a problem which Justice Minister Von Steiger warns is endangering the security of the nation.

Apart from the economic strain on the country's limited resources, and the risk of acquiring undesirables, her neutrality might easily be placed in jeopardy. That neutrality is one of Switzerland's greatest treasures, since the independence which she has safeguarded for six and a half centuries is involved. She has no reason to fear the allies, but a successful German invasion would mean bondage.

Swiss Stay Neutral

The Swiss success in maintaining their neutrality is one of the phenomena of the war. Their towering mountains afford them much protection, but because they stand in the heart of trouble those same perks are exposed to international political blasts from all directions.

There are several reasons why the Swiss have been able thus far to keep out of the conflict One of them is that the government has kept a shrewd and level head, but there's a lot more to it than that.

The Axis powers, and the allies for that matter, find that Switzerland's neutrality provides them with an excellent listening-post.

The country is full of the agents of both sides in the war. Travelers from many countries drift in and out, and leave behind them a trail of information.

Then Switzerland provides a useful medium through which the axis can make money transactions necessary to provide funds for their workers (saboteurs and spies) abroad. German money is unacceptable abroad, but Swiss money is good the world over, and this can be secured by the axis by creating a trade balance in their favor Such transactions naturally are normal and in accord with neutrality

Provides Other Facilities

Switzerland also provides a grand general postoffice for all nations. Undoubtedly Germany and her satellites receive not only information but money and other valuables in the mails. Also, all hands are happy to have the International Red Cross in Switzerland.

However, I should say that Swiss security from attack by Hitler rests largely in the fact that Germany and Italy must have access to the Simplon and St Gothard railroads which pass through three of the world's longest tunnels—the Lotschberg, Simplon and Gothard—and are the chief highways between the Mediterranean and northern Europe.

Charles S Foltz Jr, Associated Press correspondent, some time ago reported from Switzerland that streams of German, Dutch, Belgian French Czech and Polish cars, all in the service of the axis, were passing southward into Italy with coal and iron, and on returning were bringing some bauxite (aluminum ore) which had been shipped from Yugoslavia to Trieste and fruits and vegetables from Italy.

Now these tunnels have been heavily mined by the Swiss and undoubtedly would be blown up should Germany make an attack on Switzerland It would take years to make the tunnels serviceable again. This seems to be the primary reason why the axis powers haven't monkeyed with Swiss neutrality—they can't get along without those tunnels

DEFERMENT MISUSE IS CHARGED BY CIO

Union Charges Industry of "Despicable Practices."

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Sept 23 The CIO United Rubber workers accuse business concerns of engaging in the despicable practice of securing unnecessary selective service deferments for employes

In a resolution adopted by the union's sixth convention, delegates declared some industries had "sadly abused" powers to obtain deferments for men essential to war production and demanded that the practice be stopped

Contending the check-up day provided in the union's contracts, rubber workers voted to shift to eight hours or to any number of hours to win the battle of production if it is demonstrated that a labor shortage exists.

In other resolutions, the convention urged Attorney General Francis Biddle to investigate an investigation of the Dies committee; advocated steps toward obtaining bonuses for night workers, condemned the poll tax, and urged the government to insure a fair and speedy trial of Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader who has been ordered deported

Too Alert

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I.—When air raid signals sounded here the other night, one mother got busy. She whisked her children to the basement. She unlatched the front door so the air raid warden would have easy access if necessary. She filled pails with water. She was so busy she failed to hear the all clear signal 5 minutes after the alarm. So for two hours she and her children sat in the basement, listening to trucks and things that sounded suspiciously like approaching planes. It was nearly 5 a. m. when she got back to bed.

BILL LEAVES ROOM FOR PRICE INCREASE

Measure Won't Halt Farm Cost Rise Immediately.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Anti-inflation legislation now being debated in Congress would not give President Roosevelt authority to halt immediately the advance in farm prices that started with the outbreak of war in Europe in 1939

Several important agricultural commodities could advance beyond present or recent price levels before the Chief Executive could impose price ceilings Included would be wheat, corn, oats, cotton, rye, barley, flaxseed, dry beans, hay, tea, turkeys, potatoes and lemons

The legislation would authorize ceilings on farm products at either (1) the highest prices reached between Jan 1, 1942 and Sept 15, 1942 adjusted for seasonal variations or (2) parity prices, whichever is higher In no event could ceilings be established at less than parity prices

Parity prices also are used by economists as a guide to both producer and consumer, are prices that are designed to give farm products as much purchasing power in terms of manufactured products as in a base period, the years 1909-14

The farm products listed above are selling at less than parity Hence they would not be subject to ceilings until they reached the parity level

On the other hand, many important farm products have advanced above parity and consequently would be subject to ceilings The list includes hogs, beef cattle, veal calves, lambs, butterfat, wholesale milk, eggs, chickens, potatoes and sweet potatoes

A farm bloc proposal to change the method of computing parity prices by including hired farm labor costs would raise the level at which ceilings could be imposed on those products now bringing farmers less than parity This proposal, opposed by the administration, would boost parity prices an average of 14 per cent For example, under present method of computing parity, wheat could advance from a recent average market price of 94 cents a bushel to $1.31 before ceilings could be imposed

The Firestone company, reviewing the changeover from civilian to virtually 100 per cent war work, said the manufacturing cost of the anti-aircraft guns was reduced by methods worked out in collaboration with army engineers, The Associated Press reported.

Firestone also reported its Hobart plant increased output 30 per cent since last Aug. 15 and 1,000 per cent since Pearl Harbor, adding that a single day's production here equals the combined output of two foreign factories in one month.

Other figures in the report showed a 27 per cent increase in the manufacture of barrage balloons since Aug. 15, or 800 per cent higher than on last Dec. 7, and a 400 per cent increase in the field of inflatable life belts.

Coca-Cola Defeats S.W.O.C. 1949, 2-1, To Even Little World Series

Winners To Face Greenwood No. 1 Thursday at 6:15 at Lincoln Park.

Coca-Cola, Commercial league softball champion, is back in the running for the city championship as a result of its 2-1 victory at the expense of S. W. O. C. 1949 in the third Little World series contest at Lincoln park last night.

Earlier in the series S. W. O. C. defeated Coca-Cola, 7-5, and later edged Greenwood No. 1, 7-6. As a result of last night's game Coca-Cola will oppose Greenwood No. 1 Thursday night. Game time has been changed from 6:30 to 6:15.

Star Pitchers Absent

All three of the series teams have now lost at least one game. At least two games remain to be played before the new city champion will be decided.

Both teams were without their star pitchers in last night's duel. The veteran Woody Walters, who already has two victories in this year's tourney, could not participate in the game and Coxie Weiss, who hurled Coca-Cola to 15 straight victories in the fast Commercial league, has not been in a series game so far.

Fritz Walters replaced his brother on the mound for the favored S. W. O. C. team and allowed seven hits. Letty Gorenflo yielded five hits in subbing for Weiss.

Coca-Cola scored its two runs in the third inning on two singles, a walk and a fly ball. Pitcher Gorenflo opened the inning by hitting out a single. Weber was out on a fly to Edington at third base. Cochert walked and Reichardt singled to center field, Gorenflo scoring ahead of the throw home. The throw went over Catcher Darnell's head and Cochert raced in from third base with the winning run.

Score in Sixth

S. W. O. C.'s lone tally came in the sixth inning. Corrigan singled and scored after Fritz Walters walked and Edington was safe on Short Stop Cook's error. B. Walters was out, Cook to Freeman, to retire the side with the tying and winning runs on the bases.

Massillon Tigers Off on Another Banner Season

Squad Playing Under Third Coach in as Many Years; Wins Opener.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—Those terrific Tigers of Massillon High school, unbeaten by an Ohio team since 1931, and defeated but once in their last 70 games (7-0 by New Castle, Pa., in 1937) are off on another championship spree.

The Tigers have their third coach in as many years, but the changes don't seem to matter. Last week Massillon beat Cleveland Cathedral Latin, 38 to 0, for its 14th in a row without defeat—the victory string marred only by last year's 6-6 tie with Mansfield.

Elwood Kammer, junior high coach at Massillon for seven years before taking over the Tiger helm, had his first team out of the game most of the last half. A crowd of 13,500 saw the game, and Massillon made all its touchdowns on the ground, the feature attraction being a 90-yard jaunt by substitute halfback Tyre Gibson.

Beats Mt. Vernon

While the Massillons were carrying on in traditional style, several other squads which did not taste defeat in 1941 continued down the victory trail. Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, winner of eight straight last season, when it led the state in scoring with 359 points while not permitting an enemy cleat to touch pay dirt, defeated Mount Vernon's Yellow Jackets 31 to 0 for the Cadets' 19th in a row.

Toledo Libbey, tied by Martins Ferry last season in a post-season fill, slugged out a 26-6 win over Toledo Woodward; Mansfield, tied only by Massillon a year ago, hurt Akron West 14 to 0, while Cleveland Lincoln, winner of nine in a row in 1941, nosed out Toledo Scott 6 to 0.

Only Portsmouth East of last years unsullied group went down in the openers. The river city squad dropped a 13-0 verdict to Washington C. H.

Along with the 90-yard jaunt by Massillon's Gibson, several other long runs were chalked up in the inaugurals. Don Horn of Dayton Fairview intercepted a pass and raced 70 yards for his team's only marker in losing to Hamilton by 18 to 6; Wilmington's Chatley Hamilton did the same as his mates lost to Xenia by 19 to 6, while John Richardson's 81-yard run helped Chillicothe beat Jackson 19 to 0.

Coaching Changes

Coach Dana King, after a 13-year absence spent coaching University of Cincinnati teams, and the Cincy Bengals of the American pro league, returned as Hamilton High mentor and watched his scholastic proteges beat Fairview. At Middletown, Coach Elmer Lingrel started his 20th season as Middie mentor, and the boys beat Columbus East 19 to 0.

The "back of the week" undoubtedly was Jack Bickel, 165-pound Newark lad. The youngster, in the 33-0 conquest over Columbus West, gained 117 yards from scrimmage, was on the end of two forward-lateral which gained 50 yards, returned three punts for 51 yards, scored three touchdowns and plunged for three extra points.

PENNSYLVANIA COLT WINS FEATURE RACE

Saratoga Is Victor in $5,000 Delaware Event.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 23—Three sensational two-year-olds—Adios, Widows Pride and Kings Counsel—battle in the $2,500 pacing stake at the Delaware Grand Circuit meeting today.

Adios, owned by Thomas Thomas, holds the record of 2:03⅗ for twice around a half-mile track, but a tight race is expected since Vic Fleming's Widows Pride and Hugh M. (Doc) Parshall's Kings Counsel have bested the Thomas entry previously.

Saratoga, bay colt owned by L. T. Gustin of Hollcene, Pa., and driven by Paul Vineyard, fought off a strong bid by Henry Volo in winning the $5,000 Ben Scioto pacing stake, feature of yesterday's inaugural card. Wilmington, owned by J. E. Kelley of Bangor, Me., won a $950 consolation race for eliminated horses.

Worthy Boy, gelding by Colonite-Winwell Worthy, captured the $2,500 two-year-old trot in straight heats. The Colonel, brown gelding by San Guy-Little Mary, took the $500 2:1 class pace, and He Can Trot won the $500 2:1 trot.

RATED GREATEST DOUBLE PLAY COMBINATION

"GREEN" IRISH TEAM TO FACE CALVERT IN OPENER SATURDAY

Inexperience Is Big Handicap as St. Mary Prepares for Lid Lifter.

One freshman, two sophomores, seven juniors and one senior will be in the Marion St. Mary starting line-up when the Irish face a formidable Tiffin Calvert team in the season's opener Saturday night at Harding stadium.

Absence of players with varsity experience will undoubtedly be the crappy Saints chief handicap in facing Calvert. While, on the other hand, Calvert invades Harding stadium with a veteran team, Calvert turned back Galion 19-0 for a successful debut last Friday night.

Coach Eugene Fetter, a former St. Mary athletic satellite, is prepping his charges with two objectives. Of course his primary objective is to win, but, realizing that available talent does not point to a championship team, Coach Fetter is building a team which may, by the halfway mark in the schedule, be able to stand up against its tougher opponents. In other words, he isn't going to burn all of the fuel at the start, but will save the best for a great finish.

System Not New

This system, while not new in coaching practices, may result in a better than an average season. Much the same plan has been used in nearby schools and colleges. For the last five or six years, the famed and much-loved Bob Zuppke led his Illini eleven to national successes.

Bob Wintersteller, the only freshman who will be in Saturday's starting line-up, has been turning in some very flashy performances from his position at right flank. Barring injuries, he looms as a great high school end in another season or two. He weighs 150 pounds.

Kent Daum, an 150-pound junior with some varsity experience, will be at the opposite flank.

John Werley and Larry Leser, weighing 170 and 165 pounds respectively, will start at the tackles. They are the only sophomores nominated in the starting line-up by Coach Fetter. Joe Wilmes and Paul Ring, both juniors, will start at the guard slots and Dan Kelly will be at center.

One Senior Available

Fullback Don Moran is the only senior in the starting backfield or, for that matter, on the team. Danny McGinnis, a standout member of last year's Irish basketball team which won a berth in the state Class B tournament, will be at quarterback. Frank Tobin and Bob Murphy will start at halves. McGinnis, Tobin and Murphy are juniors.

Tobin has been bothered recently with a sprained knee, but is expected to be in top shape for the starting nod Saturday. George Paulson, a back, also has been on the ailing list. He suffered an ankle sprain shortly after daily practice sessions began earlier in the month and has been on the sidelines ever since.

Assisting Coach Fetter in rounding the Irish eleven into shape is Father Francis Lutmer, assistant pastor at St. Mary. Father Lutmer attended St. Xavier in Cincinnati, where he starred as a lineman.

All cosmetics made in Uruguay or imported require approval of the ministry of public health before they may be advertised or placed on sale.

Down through the years, the famed Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance infield combination has been universally ranked as the best of all time in the number of double plays completed. However, most baseball students, even down to Manse Joe McCarthy of the world champion New York Yankees, will admit the modern combination of Rizzuto-to-Gordon-to-Hassett—is even greater. This trio is one of several reasons why the Yanks are favored to cop their sixth world series title in seven seasons.

UNIMPRESSIVE WIN OVER KENTUCKY 11 DIMS GEORGIA HOPES

Highly-Publicized Team Is a Washout in First Game of Season.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 23—Personal memo to Georgia football faithful: Don't be in a hurry to make that post-season bowl reservation.

In short, Georgia will have to show a lot more than its bag o' tricks against Kentucky if it expects to hit the glory road in 1942.

Georgia, champion of the Orange bowl and alma mater of All-American Frankie Sinkwich of Youngstown, O., looked like just another college football team at Louisville last week-end. At least, like just another team—plus Sinkwich. For the flat-footed guy is still a big-time football star, and when the chips were down, with Georgia trailing 0-6, he pitched and plunged 63 yards in nine plays to put across the tying score so specialist Leo Costa could boot the winning extra point.

Coach Was Right

No one believed wailing Wally Butts when he squealed at being rated one of the nation's top teams. But even Wally hid his face in his hands when the Orange bowl champions buckled under Kentucky's pounding.

The stands knew after the Kentucky game what Wally has also known since Sept. 1—that a lot of polishing has to be done if Georgia is to win.

But make no mistake—Georgia still is potentially the team the experts said it was. Defensively it is brilliant. Kentucky completed only one of nine passing attempts, made only 108 yards by rushing. Sinkwich, below par and rusty on his flinging, nevertheless completed nine out of 18 passes for 108 yards, gained 77 more in 22 rushing attempts to once more outgain the entire opposing team.

Charlie Trippi, Sinkwich's publicized sophomore understudy, looked disappointing in his first collegiate game, but may regain his poise before mid-season. Walter Maguire, a junior who moved up to succeed graduated Cliff Kimsey at blocking back, appears more than adequate, and Lamar Davis and Jerry Nunnally give Butts two experienced wingbacks. Dick McPhee was regular fullback of last year's Orange bowl team.

Have Great Line

Georgia's line has two of the ablest centers in the country, Bill Godwin and Clyde Ehrhardt, and starters on each side who look capable of going one hour if they have to. Walter Ruark and Harry Kuniansky are the guards, Garland Williams and Gene Ellenson the starting tackles, and Van Davis and George Poschner, ends.

The balance of Georgia's night schedule: Sept. 25 (night) Jacksonville Naval Air station; Oct. 3 (night) Furman at Athens; Oct. 10, Mississippi at Memphis; Oct. 17, at Athens; Oct. 24, Cincinnati at Cincinnati; Oct. 31, Alabama at Atlanta; Nov. 7, Florida at Jacksonville; Nov. 14, Chattanooga at Chattanooga; Nov. 21, Auburn at Columbus, Ga.; Nov. 28, Georgia Tech at Athens.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS NEED 3 VICTORIES TO CLINCH PENNANT

Derringer, Vander Meer Star as Reds Defeat Cubs Twice.

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals look like they're just a deep breath and a loud sneeze away from the National league pennant now, and it's probably just as well for the cardiac condition and the nervous systems of Gus Q. Fan and the kiddies that it's almost over.

It's not that this is the closest race in history, mind you, because some of those senior circuit chases have been as tight as a new pair of shoes after a 12-mile hike. But in this year's stretch drive, the Cardinals and the second-place Brooklyn Bums are specializing in seeing who can raise more lumps in the most throats in every game.

Still 2½ in Front

Even time they go to the post, both outfits are keeping everyone—including themselves—in suspense from start to finish before making up their minds either to pull a game out of the fire or blow it.

On Monday, for instance, the Cards had to go nine innings before they decided to knock over the Pirates. The same day, the Dodgers got enough runs in the first inning to flail the Phillies, but in every frame from there right down to the wire they were in hot water.

And yesterday it was the same thing, although St. Louis didn't let it last as long this time before pounding the Pirates 9-3 to remain 2½ games up in the pennant race. The Birds now need only three victories or three Dodger losses to clinch the flag.

The Bums had to come from behind three times yesterday against the Giants, and then Dolph Camilli had to clout his 25th homer out of the ball park in the 12th inning to win the game 9 to 8.

Reds Win Two

There was some more fireworks after the game. Bill Klem, the old arbitrator who used to be the loop's most feared umpire, got into a row with Brooklyn prexy Larry MacPhail. The argument started over a strike. Umpire Al Barlick called on Dolph Camilli in a game a full ten days ago, and in the course of his "rebuttal" old Uncle Bill referred to red-headed Larry as a "big guy when you're winning," among other things.

Pitching dominated the action elsewhere in the big leagues. Paul Derringer and Johnny Vander Meer served up a five-hitter and a three-hitter, respectively, and the Cincinnati Reds rolled over the Chicago Cubs twice by scores of 4-1. It was no trick at all for the New York Yankees to take a 3-1 decision from the Senators behind Atley Donald's five-hit elbowing. Dizzy Trout tossed a six-hitter as Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 9-2.

SAVOLD WINS AKRON FIGHT OVER FLYNN

Kayos Rochester, N. Y., Youth in Fourth Round.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Sept. 23—Lee Savold, high-ranking heavyweight from Des Moines, Ia., registered his second ring victory within a week as he knocked out ambitious Jack Flynn of Rochester, N. Y., after two minutes and 25 seconds of the fourth stanza in their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

Twice before the final blow the 23-year-old Rochester fighter went down for the count of nine—once under Savold's first blow in the fourth, a jolting right to the jaw.

Flynn, at 195, held a two-pound advantage over the National Boxing association's third-ranking heavyweight.

Sergeant Jack Marshall of Texas won a 10-round co-featured bout with Dan Merritt of Cleveland in a decision that was booed loudly by the fans for 15 minutes.

In the preliminaries, Lew Woods of Detroit, 150, put away Bob Maloney of Pittsburgh, 141, after one minute and 59 seconds of the first round; Vince Turpin of Canton, 144, gained a decision over Johnny Jones of Pittsburgh, also 144, and Buddy Smallwood of Akron, 120, knocked out Fred Cramer of Hamilton, O., 121, in the third round.

All prelims were scheduled for five rounds.

FARM TROUBLE SEEN AHEAD

Secretary Wickard Cites Serious Agriculture Labor Situation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said today unless "we find a way to deal with the farm labor and other problems of production satisfactorily and find some way to meet the distant future to avert a shortage of food."

Testifying before the house agriculture committee about a growing labor shortage which he said must not be overlooked or underestimated, Wickard suggested that the selective service act be given consideration.

"This is not simply a question affecting agriculture," Wickard said. "It is a question which affects the entire war effort."

While 1942 food production has reached a record high, he told the committee beginning an investigation of the whole farm problem, "the future is much darker," since much labor for the 1942 crop was performed before the United States entered the war.

"We begin on the 1943 crop with a labor situation far more threatening than a year ago and every sign points to our losing more and more men," the secretary testified.

First Little World Series Game To Be Played Thursday

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—A pair of baseball clubs that finished the regular season in third place then crushed opponents in straight games in playoff finals—the Columbus Red Birds of the American association and the Syracuse Chiefs of the International league—clash tomorrow night in the "Little World Series."

President George Trautman of the association today announced a best four-out-of-seven game schedule designed to give the players the biggest possible slice of the box office take.

The teams will play two games here, travel Saturday and open a three-game series at Syracuse Sunday afternoon. If additional contests are necessary, they will return to Columbus.

If weather forces postponement of either of the Thursday or Friday night games at Columbus, three games will be played here and four, if necessary, at Syracuse.

Trautman said the alternate schedule was worked out so that the players, who get 60 per cent of the gross receipts of the first four games, would not have to travel on Sunday and lose a share of a heavy week-end gate.

Bill Crouch will pitch the series opener for the Red Birds and Clayton Lambert will be on the mound for Syracuse.

The Chiefs battled into the series by defeating the Jersey City Giants, 9-8, in the fourth successive game of the International league playoff finals last night. Syracuse previously eliminated Montreal.

The Birds entered their fifth junior world series in 10 years by trampling the Toledo Mud Hens in four straight games of the association finals.

Columbus won the junior world series from Montreal last year.

REMINDER OF CIVIL WAR FOUND NEAR SANDUSKY

The possible visit of a Confederate soldier escaped from the Union's prison camp on Johnson's island, near Sandusky, during the Civil War has been uncovered. Carved in a large rock along Lake Erie and worn almost beyond legibility is this inscription: "Lt. HGG 1864 C. S. A." Historians are attempting through Confederate records to identify the officer. Since southern prisoners are known to have fled the island in 1864 and 1865, they are fairly certain the inscription is no hoax. Robert Kinke, 8, of Cleveland, examines the letters, outlined in chalk to produce a clear reproduction.

VERNON HEIGHTS P.-T.A. HEADS PLAN ACTIVITIES

Monthly Meeting Schedule To Be Discontinued.

Officers of the Parent-Teachers Association of Vernon Heights Junior High school met last night at the school to discuss plans for the year. The officers are John Courtright, president; Mrs. H. W. Stayner, secretary; Walter Axthelm, treasurer; Mrs. George Flatman, first vice president; Cecil Gabler, second vice president.

A new war plan for the organization was adopted for this year. Because of difficulties of transportation and the added duties of most of the members, the association will not hold monthly meetings as in the past but will meet four times during the school year.

This plan has been in use in several of the junior high schools in Columbus for the last few years and has been very successful, Mr. Gabler reported. It results in larger attendance and better planned meetings.

The parents will become acquainted with the organizations and their work through programs and exhibits presented at the meetings, Mr. Gabler said.

25,000 TO ATTEND OPENING O. S. U. GAME

Smallest Crowd in 10 Years, Ticket Official Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—Henry Taylor, Ohio State university's veteran director of ticket sales, predicted today that Saturday's opening football game with Fort Knox, Ky., would draw "about 25,000 fans."

Should Taylor prove correct—and he generally is right on matters pertaining to Buck attendance—the Saturday gate would be the smallest in 10 years for Ohio State.

In 1932, when the Bucks opened with a 34 to 7 conquest of Ohio Wesleyan, only 17,236 customers "sat in" on the game. The next smallest crowd of the decade was in 1933, when the Bucks beat Virginia by 75 to 0 before 38,471 fans.

Last season, Coach Paul E. Brown's first at the Ohio helm, found the Bucks attracting 267,715 to five home games—an average of 57,543.

Displaying alight tension as Saturday's season opener approaches, Ohio State university's gridders were scheduled to taper off in today's workouts.

The Bucks clash with the army's ponderous "Ammo-Raiders" from Fort Knox in the curtain raiser.

The relative strength of the teams is an "X" quantity. The service men outweigh Coach Paul Brown's lads about 20 pounds per man, but the Bucks are expected to make their victory bid by sheer speed. The tank soldiers' line averages 212 pounds and their backfield 196.

Don Steinberg, junior end from Toledo, might draw his first starting assignment for Ohio State. End Dante Lavelli is nursing a stubborn "charley-horse" and Jim No. 1 replacement, John White, has a shoulder separation.

CONVOY

materials has arrived in north Russian ports.

"Losses were suffered among the ships in the convoy, but despite heavy attacks by enemy aircraft and U-boats the great majority of the ships arrived at their destinations.

"The convoy consisted of British, American and Russian merchant ships.

"It is not intended to assist the enemy by informing him of the extent of his lack of success against this convoy, but it is possible to say that his claims in this occasion have been more exaggerated than usual.

"No ship of the escort of this convoy was lost.

The German high command asserted Sunday that Nazi submarines and planes had smashed a great Russia-bound convoy in Arctic waters, sinking 38 merchant ships totaling 270,000 tons and destroying or damaging six warships in a running battle lasting six days.

With the fanfare of trumpets usually reserved for announcing great achievements, the Berlin radio broadcast a high command claim that only battered remnants of an original 45 freighters and tankers had escaped.

A Texas man has invented a flexible rule for carpenters and machinists that is strapped to a wrist like a watch to prevent the rule being mislaid or lost.

DAY NURSERY NEEDS OF MARION STUDIED

Survey To Be Continued Through Child League.

The sponsoring of a day nursery for children of mothers who are or may be in defense production work was discussed at a meeting of the executive board of the Marion Child Conservation League Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Paul Last, president of the federation, and Miss Vivian Hall, case worker, division of public assistance, are co-chairmen of an investigating committee to learn the need of a day nursery here. They are asking the cooperation of interested persons and are asking that women with children who are in defense work or anticipating going into this phase of defense work, contact the Girl Scout office in order to estimate the needs of the city and community.

D. U. V. Tent To Work on Surgical Dressings

The group decided to make surgical dressings each Wednesday morning from 9 until 12 o'clock. Mrs. Bettie Warner and Mrs. Pearl Schwartz were appointed department aids.

Plans were made to attend a banquet and reception at the Southern Hotel in Columbus to be held Saturday evening in honor of the department president, Mrs. Anna M. Edwards of Columbus.

Mrs. Teresa Arnold talked on the history of the "Star Spangled Banner" in observance of the anniversary of the song.

King's Daughters Install Officers

Officers were installed at a meeting of the Service circle of the King's Daughters Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. D. Hazen. A picnic dinner preceded the meeting.

The officers installed were: Mrs. Hazen, leader; Mrs. Kendrick Turner, vice leader; Miss Nelle Loveland, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Foley, treasurer.

McGuffey Man Released on Bond in Shooting

KENTON, O., Sept. 23—Pete Emmens, 38, went free on $3,000 bond today after being bound to the grand jury Tuesday by Mayor William Paugh of McGuffey on charges of shooting Rubin Conby, 28, with intent to kill. The charges were filed by Melvin Conley, a brother of the wounded man.

Mayor Paugh said Emens pleaded not guilty, contending he shot Conley, his brother-in-law, in self defense. Conley is recovering in McKitrick hospital where attendants said a lung hemorrhage had been stopped.

RAIL SHARES LEAD MARKET

Trading Fairly Vigorous in Both Low Priced and Costlier Issues.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Rails gave the stock market a fairly vigorous leadership today under broad buying which embraced not only the recently favored low priced issues but the higher rated shares as well.

Steels and aircrafts moved with the carriers, but a substantial number of industrial pivotals had little climbing power. Over the list gains of fractions to around a point were well distributed.

The brisk demand for the transportation stocks was attributed to a surge of optimism on dividend prospects based on southern railways announcement yesterday of a disbursement of $1.25 on the preferred stock after a lapse of 11 years. Russia's continued strong resistance to the Nazi siege of Stalingrad also had a good effect on market sentiment.

Several rails reached new tops for a year or longer. They included Atlantic coast line, Erie and Erie certificates.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, and Johns-Manville were moderately ahead most of the time. Douglas pushed up 1¾ on small transactions and fractional improvement was recorded by Boeing and United Aircraft. General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward and Westinghouse showed little response to rising tendencies elsewhere.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN ANOTHER CENT TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 — Wheat prices gained about a cent a bushel in early trading today, reaching best figures in the last three to four months, then spent the remainder of the session fluctuating nervously just below the day's highs.

Washington reports of a move in the senate to revise the basis of calculating parity prices so that ceilings on farm commodities may be higher than present parity figures stimulated buying. Demand also came from mills and lifting of hedges in connection with sale of more than 300,000 bushels for shipment out of Chicago, largest business of this nature in weeks, added to support.

Wheat closed ⅝-1 higher than yesterday, December $1.28⅛-⅜, May $1.31⅝-¾; corn ⅛-¾ up, December 86¼-⅜ May 90⅝; oats ¼-⅜ higher; soybeans ½-⅝ advanced and rye ½-⅝ higher.

3,000 Slovenes Killed, 58 Villages Destroyed

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 23—More than 3,000 Slovenes have been shot and 58 villages razed in recent weeks as reprisals for increasing sabotage of Slovene railways, Yugoslav sources reported today.

These sources, whose names were withheld, said dynamitings had disrupted lines vital for transportation of war materials and foodstuffs from central and southwestern Europe.

In addition to the Slovenes shot, they said, 105,000 had been deported to Germany and at least 70,000 to Italy.

SCRAP

out of iron; it simply refines steel already made, hence only scrap can be used.

"An electric furnace melts the metal only. It is closed up tight without open flames and compressed air flowing over the molten metal. So there is not enough oxydation to make steel out of iron.

Some Alloys In Scrap

Just plain steel has very little use in modern industry because it is too soft. The alloys must be melted with it to obtain the required hardness and toughness. These include chromium, molybdenum, tungsten, nickel and others.

Much of the steel scrap already has these metals in it. The scrap is carefully segregated so that the operator knows exactly what is in the steel he puts into the furnace. To make a particular type of steel, he starts with some of the alloys already in the scrap and then adds what other alloys are needed.

One of the main advantages of the electric furnace is that the alloys in the scrap are not lost through oxydation and because the mixture is mechanical rather than chemical, there is better control of what comes out.

This preservation of alloys, incidentally, is of great strategical importance in war time when new supplies of the alloys, many of them imported, are hard to get.

'Home Scrap' Is Best

Scrap comes from a great number of sources, but the best a steel maker can get is what is known as "home scrap." This is what is left from manufacturing in factories connected with his own mill.

The advantage of this is that the steel maker knows exactly what is in the scrap which he himself made. And this can be quite a large supply.

But these mills still must depend largely on outside sources for many types of scrap. One of the most important of these is known as "low phos." This is steel with a minimum of alloys in it. It comes chiefly from automobile body plants and all types of stamping or punching manufacture.

(Most of these industries are non-defense. Thus they are working far below normal and consequently their scrap output is greatly reduced.)

Low Phos Scrap

The reason why low phos is important in electric furnaces is this: An electric furnace is heated by heavy electrodes — large sticks of carbon which extend down into the charge, the scrap metal in the furnace.

Light metals, chiefly consisting of low phos, must be put on top because during the melting they fall down and heavy pieces would break the electrodes.

Steel makers having to take whatever kind of scrap they can get, are forced to adapt their work to it and have lost a lot of their control. Feeling lucky to get any, they do the best they can with what comes in.

There are three very simple reasons why scrap is scarce, the reasons you have been reading about in the scrap shortage stories. They are:

1. Non-defense industries are slowed down, reducing the supply of low phos and other types.

2. The speedup of all production has greatly increased and spread out the consumption of scrap.

3. A large part of the scrap which might have accumulated during the past year was "taken out of circulation" in this country and sold abroad, chiefly to Japan and Italy.

The solution?

That's what the boys in Washington want to know.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Itching Ears

Nature has placed the ear deep inside a heavy bone of the skull to protect it as much as possible. Curiously enough she made no such provision for the eye, so that our eyesight is constantly threatened by the accident of flying splinters of glass or steel.

The organ of hearing is threatened only by two classes of natural enemies. One is infection which worms its way by devious channels into the middle ear and the other is a degeneration of the organs, which probably depends on a general bodily condition.

I said the organ of hearing advisedly—the external ear is subject to several diseases of an annoying nature, but which do not threaten the sense of hearing. One of these is itching of the skin of the auditory canal. I suppose there are few people who are not troubled with this to a certain degree. It is due to ringworm infection, and any solution which contains alcohol applied on cotton pledgets will give relief.

The application should be done by a doctor who can see with an illuminating mirror because the ringworm is likely to occur in spots and patches, but most of us just put a pledget moistened with some sort of solution, such as equal parts of boric acid and alcohol, and find the results quite good.

In order to prevent recurrence keep the ear dry. Water is the worst thing for an itching of the external ear. It is not always easy during your ablutions to keep water out, but by a little ingenuity it can be done.

Another feature about it is the extreme chronicity and tendency to recur. Once you have an itchy ear you must expect it to recur over and over again. But the same treatment is as good the second time as the first.

Wax in the ear or a foreign body in the ear are conditions which are not quite so simple as they appear at first. In fact at times the accumulation of wax in the ear may strain the resources of the most accomplished ear surgeon.

The wax may be packed so tight as to leave the patient entirely deaf. Removing the wax with the aid of a speculum and a curette may cause great pain in which case syringing the ear with warm water to soften the tissues and the wax may have to be carried out for hours until the effort is rewarded with success.

Foreign bodies get in the ear in ways that are quite as mysterious to the victim as the surgeon. Adults who scratch their ears may leave bits of matches, gauze, cotton pledgets, applicators and so forth.

But the most astonishing objects are what children get in their ears. Peas, marbles, live insects, which make terrifying noises are all on the list. The child will not always tell about the accident but if a child begins to cough, think of the ear.

Oil refiners have developed a solvent made of water, caustic soda and methanol to remove disagreeable odors arising when gasoline is refined without reducing the anti-knock properties of the gasoline.

Closed for 50 years, an old mine in Sweden yielding silver, lead and zinc will be reopened and operated with modern machinery.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"SAY THAT LAST—again—slowly!"

This command from Lillian—her first words since I began to tell of Carolyn's perfidy—came in raucous gasps, and her face was ashen.

Watching her closely I had seen the color recede from her cheeks, and her eyes change from live anger to dull despair.

It was plain that I had won my battle to convince her that Carolyn had duped her, but I felt this was a sorry victory if it caused such anguish to my friend's spirit. Yet I knew there must be no faltering, no turning back, in what I had to do.

Clue to Marion

"We are sure that Marion went away to shield Carolyn," I repeated slowly.

"From—what?" she asked, still in a raucous monotone.

"If we only knew that, dear girl," I said, "we would have another vital clue to the discovery of Marion. But I think a clue may lie in the one thing I have not yet told you—something which Carolyn said, which you must not believe for a single second, because Father and I are both convinced it is the blackest of lies."

From between her stiff lips came the whispered words:

"Tell me!"

I spurred my courage to utter the searing words.

"Carolyn told me Marion had gone away with a man, and was going to marry him," I said at last.

I thought she was going to spring from her chair, but she sank back. Then she put a question in what I guessed was a last, despairing attempt to defend her daughter's "roomie."

Clings to Her Faith

"You know Marion wrote that to Ronald and to me. Could she not have written it to Carolyn also, and Carolyn could not read between the lines?"

"Not a chance in the world," I told her. "We were pressing her very hard, and showing that we believed nothing she said. If she had had a letter from Marion telling her that, I am certain she would have shown it to us. No, she simply connected that lie, as she did others, in her desperate attempt to get away from us."

"She is desperate, then?" she inquired, after another silence, and there was a distinct change from the raucous monotone of her voice. I saw that her keen intelligence was beginning to work again.

"Oh, most certainly," I said. "But to do her justice, Lillian, I believe she is obsessed by unknown terror of that 'collegiate gangster.' If you could have seen her when he talked to her, while she was in our car, just before the police car siren drove him away, you would know what I mean.

Hypnotized by Fear

"She was like a bird responding to the hypnotic compulsion of a snake. She was desperately afraid to go with him, for I think she had just realized that he was a gangster, but more afraid of what he might do if she did not.

"She said it would be the end of everything for herself and Marion, too, if she did not obey him. And if you could have seen the incarnated evil in the faces of both those men, you would have seen, as we did, that to let Carolyn get into their power would have meant a fatal blow to our hopes for rescuing Marion."

Lillian's face was quivering now, and she held out her hands to me in tremulous appeal.

"Your father is right," she said bitterly. "I cannot be trusted to think or act sanely in this crisis."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Sept. 24

SOME HIGH pressure activities of a unique or spectacular nature, may materialize under the peculiar and vivid astral operations. The energies and emotions may be keyed up to high nervous tension, probably with the purpose of putting over a major proposition or program. This should have the support and encouragement of superiors, employers or those in financial standing. But there may be an undercurrent of subtlety and fraud to guard against.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of unusual activity and excitement, probably of an extraordinary, sensational or unpredictable nature in which the energies and spirits as well as the forces and faculties may be keyed up to concert pitch. Be ever alert to machinations, betrayals, loss or fraud where least expected.

A child born on this day may possess excellent creative abilities and energies, with originality, initiative and aggressive purpose. But it may be a victim of fraud.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—More than 80 per cent of the nation's daily newspapers already have pledged participation in the current scrap collection drive.

This report was given to Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board today by Richard W. Slocum, head of the newspaper scrap drive committee.

Pledges of cooperation have been received from approximately 1,400 dailies and more pledges are coming in daily, Slocum reported.

At a meeting here Sept. 4, called by Nelson, newspapers accepted leadership in the drive in their communities to bring in additional tons of badly needed scrap.
